BALLOT RECOUNT
BEGIN IN CONTEST
OVER MAYORALTY

First Step Taken to Determine Action Brought Against Mayor Miller by Democratic Opponent.

WORK TO CONTINUE UNTIL SEPTEMBER

Result Will Be Submitted to Circuit Judge Miller, Who Will Construe the Blanket Ballot Law.

A recount of the 235,526 votes cast in the last mayoral election began in the office of the Election Board at the City Hall at 9:30 a.
m. today as the first step in the determination of the contest of Mayor Miller's election, which was brought by William L. Igoe, Democrat.

The contest centers about the Democratic allegation that votes intended for Igoe were counted for Mayor Miller and the Republican charge that fraud was committed.

Chairman George Elgel of the Election Board said today that any discovery of fraud would be presented to the Circuit Attorney's office for action. The Circuit Attorney will not be represented at the Election Board office, however.

Contention of Democrats.
Igoe's contest notice asserts that the Election Board, following a ruling of former Attorney-General Harriet, instructed clerks and judges of election to count for Mayor Miller ballots which contained a cross in the circle at the head of the Republican column but with Mayor Miller's name scratched and Igoe's written in.

Harriet held that the blanket law prohibited such interlineation and that such a ballot was invalid. The President continues to define his exercise to walking, setting in a few miles daily. It is doubtful whether he will follow
Mrs. Coolidge's lead.

Rich Man Adopts Caddy
EXCELSIOR SPRINGS, Mo., July 6.—George Huxton, Excelsior Springs boy, who has been adopted by C. W. Coe, wealthy Chicago man, departed last night for Chicago to live with his foster father, whose name he has legally assumed.

Coe first became impressed with George about a year ago, when he was caddy for him on the Excelsior Springs golf links. Having no children or family of his own, he decided George was the type of a boy worthy of being given a chance to develop his natural ability and worth. A lawyer was engaged and, after getting the consent of George's parents, papers were filed in the Circuit Court and permission to adopt the boy was granted by Judge Hughes.

MRS. COOLIDGE TAKES HER FIRST DIP IN THE OCEAN

She Enjoys Plunge in Pool Protected From Surf by Rocks in Front of White Court.

By the Associated Press.
SWAMPSCOTT, Mass., July 6.— Mrs. Coolidge took her first dip in the ocean today since she and the President came here for the summer. With Mrs. Adolphus Andrews, wife of the President's naval aid, she enjoyed a plunge in a pool in front of White Court which is protected somewhat from the surf by rocks.

Mrs. Coolidge is an ardent follower of outdoor life, usually walking several miles daily. A rise in the temperature today gave her her first opportunity to take to the water.

Some neighboring children were in at the same time, but the beach at this point is virtually private.
Secret service men stood away a couple of photographers who had learned of Mrs. Coolidge's plans.

The President continues to confine his exercise to walking, set-

AMUNDSEN HAS NEW PLANS FOR POLAR EXPEDITION

Declares Recent Trip Gave Valuable Experience for Attempt to Reach Alaska

NORWEGIAN CAPITAL
WELCOMES EXPLORER

Ellsworth Almost Overlooked—Amundsen Rebukes Efforts to Belittle Peary's Work.

Special Cable to Post-Dispatch and Chicago Daily News. Copyright 1925.
OSLO, July 6.—"No, I am not returning—I have new plans," declared Roald Amundsen upon his arrival here in one of the seaplanes in which he led his spectacular though unsuccessful dash for the North Pole.

"My trip this year was only a reconnoitering expedition, but it produced valuable experiences for a further attempt to reach Alaska by way of the Pole. I am determined to follow out my plan, but will not now say how."

"In no case will I co-operate in the German airship plan advanced by Lieut. Hugo Eckener. I want to take the Norwegian flag to the Pole. International co-operation is all right theoretically, but a single country like Norway will have to work alone to make the world aware of her existence."

Amundsen added that all the flyers of his recent expedition would co-operate in writing a book on the flight.

ELLSWORTH ALMOST IGNORED IN WELCOME

By WILLIAM BIRD,
A Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

OSLO, Norway, July 6.—Norway's patriotic enthusiasm in receiving Roald Amundsen so far outliving itself yesterday that the international character of the polar expedition was overlooked.

Lincoln Ellsworth, the young American who financed the expedition after Amundsen had abandoned efforts to get it financed in his own country, was virtually ignored. Many Americans present expressed deep disappointment.

The vast plaza where the welcoming ceremonies were held was decorated with hundreds of Norwegian flags, but with only one American emblem, which flanked the Norwegian flag on the landing jetty with a German flag in honor of the flight of the Norge.

In the welcoming speeches, Ellsworth was not mentioned nor was the name of America heard. At the termination of his address, President Lykke, of Parliament shook hands with all members of the party except Ellsworth. The crowd, quick to notice these over-sights, cheered Ellsworth as he drove through the streets.

Amundsen, himself, seeing the false impression thus created, laid special emphasis on Ellsworth's part in the expedition in his later address at the Aero Club luncheon.

"Without you," he said, turning to Ellsworth, "the expedition would have been impossible."

Through Greets Explorers at Norwegian Capital.

OSLO, Norway, July 6.—Capt.
Roald Amundsen, with Lincoln Ellsworth, his American colleague, and the others who accompanied him on his recent North Polar expedition, came to Oslo yesterday in the seaplane N-25, which they were able to salvage from the Polar ice for their return to Spitzbergen.

From Spitzbergen, the explorers were brought to Horten on the Government steamer Alfr W. Sel-mer, reaching Horten at midnight Saturday.

The explorers landed at Oslo amid scenes of enthusiasm comparable only to the return of Fridtjof Nansen from the far North in 1906. It seemed as if everyone in Oslo was astir early to throng the approaches of the pier on Pipperød Bay to welcome Norway's hero, and when shortly before 1 o'clock, five seaplanes coming from Horten were sighted on the horizon a tumultuous roar went up.

Four of the planes withdrew, leaving the Polar plane N-25 with Amundsen and the other explorers on board to descend alone on the outer bay.

Then the plane was towed for some distance amid the thunder of salutes from the Akershus fortress and the visiting British cruiser squadron, and the blowing of sirens and whistles from the craft in the harbor. The party was transferred to a naval sloop and rowed to the pier.

Loaded with flowers the explorers proceeded to the pavilion where they were to dine.

Vatican Workmen Held For Theft of Relics

Six Painters Who Were Decorating Ceiling
Were on Premises When St. Peter's Treasury Was Robbed.

cations Co. (New York World).

ROME, July 6.—Cardinal Merry del Val and others charged with the care of St. Peter's treasury were calm today as they discussed the theft of valuable Vatican jewels and relics.

"Happily," said the Cardinal,
"the first estimates of the loss were heavier than it later proved. Newspapers have given the value of the loot from the treasury as 4,000,000 lire, but, by the grace of God, it isn't even 1,000,000 lire ($50,000), though it is hard to value works of art by Bellini, Michelangelo and other masters."

Though Cardinal Merry del Val did not say so, the comparatively small value of the booty is due to him. When he became archbishop of St. Peter's, many years ago, he found cupboards with ordinary locks holding the treasure. He immediately ordered a complicated system of electric wiring that would deal a heavy shock to thieves tampering with the cupboard and also sound an alarm. Through an oversight the objects stolen Friday had been placed in a cabinet not protected by this system."

Romans are excited over the affair, and declare several persons connected with the State authorities are causing an unusual rapprochement between secular and State officials. The Pope is awaiting with anxiety the results of the police investigation. The thanks of the Pope have been conveyed to the police through Cardinal Gasparri, Papal Secretary of State, and Cardinal Merry del Val.

TENNESSEE BANK CASE TAKEN UP BY GRAND JURY

Return of Indictments With-ficials.

INQUIRY INVOLVES
U. S. JUDGE ROSS

Federal Magistrate Has De-

paid Drafts That Bear His Name.

By the Associated Press.
JACKSON, Tenn., July 6.—Return of indictments within the next two days was forecast by prosecuting officials when the Madison County grand jury recon-vened today with a dozen or more witnesses waiting to testify to an alleged shortage of more than $300,000 discovered by bank examiners in the accounts of the People's Savings Bank of Jackson, now in the hands of a receiver.

J. J. Murray, District Attorney, announced that several indictments had been prepared but would not be presented to the grand jury before tomorrow.

Thomas B. Carroll, former cas-hler, and W. L. Cawthorn, a timber dealer, are under bond on warrants issued after the bank crashed.

Murray also has announced that the grand jury will be asked to investigate circumstances in connection with certain paper bearing the name of Judge J. W. Ross of the Federal District Court for Western Tennessee, found in the bank's files. Judge Ross has denied that there was anything improper in his dealings with the bank and has declined to pay amounts of alleged unpaid drafts bearing his name on the grounds that he was not indebted for the amounts.

Murray said indictments had been prepared for submission to the grand jury against T. B. and John Carroll, Cawthorn and Judge Ross.

FINED $250 FOR DRIVING AUTO WHEN INTOXICATED

Driver Found Guilty by Provisional Judge Walter on Testimony of Police.

A fine of $250 and costs for driving an automobile while intoxicated was assessed against Ernest Wheeler of 2626 South Broadway, by Provisional Judge Walter in Police Judge Rosecan's Court today.

Wheeler, who pleaded not guilty, was arrested Friday evening at Seventh and Broadway and South street after a rear-end collision with another machine. He testified that he had taken only "a couple of drinks and insisted that the collision resulted when the driver of him started to cross the intersection and stopped suddenly at the change of an automatic traffic signal.

Police, however, testified Wheeler was unable to stand on one foot and was found to be suffering from acute alcoholism when examined at the city hospital. A charge of careless driving growing out of the same accident was dismissed.

STEPHENSON'S TRIAL FIRST Court Rules in Case of Ex-Gov.
Dragon and Two Others.

By the Associated Press.
NOBLESVILLE, Ind., July 6.— D. C. Stephenson, former Indian Governor, and two others, charged with the murder of the Ku Klux Klan in Indiana, must go on trial ahead of two co-defendants on the charge of murdering Miss Madge Oberholtzer of Indianapolis, Judge Fred E.
Hines ruled today.

Judge Hines sustained the contention of William H. Remy, Prosecuting Attorney, that the State has the right to elect which defendant should be first tried and held that Stephenson should be brought to trial before Earl Klinek and Earl Gentry, who were indicted jointly with the former Klan leader in connection with Miss Oberholtzer's death.

RAIL TRIP FOR 2000 BUFFALO Canada to Transfer Animals to Another Preserve.

WAINWRIGHT, Alberta, July 6.— Two thousand young buffalo from the Wainwright herd will make a 700-mile trip northward by rail this summer to the wild buffalo reserve on Slave River, where they will be turned loose to mingle with the wood bison that range that area.

Overcrowding of Wainwright Park by rapid increase in the herd was the principal reason for the move. The buffalo that will be released this summer will be joined by 2000 each year for the next four years, until 10,000 have been sent to the new area the Dominion Government recently set aside as a

GARVEY MURDER TRIAL BEGINS Kansas City Charged With Killing His Wealthy Father.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 6.—A much-talked-of murder trial started today after technical delays of more than two years when Roy B.
Garvey, wealthy young business man, faced Judge Charles R. Pence in Circuit Court on a charge of having slain his father, James W.
Garvey, wealthy lumberman, Sept.
6, 1922.

The elder Garvey was shot in his office when employees were at lunch. What was the nature of the quarrel between father and son never has been revealed. At the time of the killing, it was said by friends of the family, that young Garvey had had a dispute with his father over a will and the state will allege that the father had intended to disinherit the son. The name of Mrs. Helen Groh, former stenographer for the elder Garvey, has been injected into the case by witnesses as a possible motive. It is said that young Garvey was using the name of the father to obtain loans from the dispossessed of the steno-grapher.

Judge Pence took under advisement until tomorrow afternoon motions of the defense to quash the indictment and to quash the jury panel on the ground that it was illegally selected.

Daughter of Justice Makes Plea

NEW YORK, July 6.—Miss An-clemency in behalf of A. Harry Kritcher, one of four men sen-of the National Bay State Shoe Co.

Kritcher was sentenced to two years in the Atlanta Penitentiary; Leo Berlow of Redbank, N. J., to three years and Elmer Berlow of East Orange, N. J., and John Brenner of Elizabeth, N. J., to 18 months imprisonment. They were officers in the company of which Kritcher was the head.

defendants, convicted of swindling scores of newspapers through failure to pay for advertisements. Miss Brandeis is a former Assistant

MOVEMENT FOR ANOTHER TERM FOR COOLIDGE

Ice on the Subject Broken by Republican National Committeeman of Kansas.

EXECUTIVE POPULAR IN WEST, HE SAYS

Opinion General Among Party Leaders That President Would Accept the Nomination.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
SWAMPSCOTT, Mass., July 6.—David W. Mulvane, Republican National Committeeman from Kansas, and one of the party's leaders in the farm states, has broken the ice on the movement for another term for President Coolidge.

Mr. Coolidge's practical economy in governmental affairs has entrenched him strongly in the West, according to Mulvane. The Republican party, he added, is receiving the credit for increased prosperity, the farmers like the President and the West will be willing to support him.

"He can have another term if he wants it," said the committeeman. "I do not find any sentiment against it. There is nothing in the tradition if the people want a man to represent them. I think the people of the West will not be disturbed by third term talk."

Will See President Soon.
Committeeman Mulvane is spending the summer in Magnolia, Mass., stopped at the executive office in Lynn last week and chatted with Secretary Sanders. He will see President Coolidge within a few days and tell him how party sentiment is running in the agricultural sections, where Republican leaders already have started a campaign to divest the party of its radical wing.

Mulvane's announcement is regarded here as exceedingly important bearing on the political situation in the West. It indicates an attempt will be made not only to win the farm states to conservatism but to secure them to President Coolidge personally. It discloses also the beginning of a movement among the party leaders to break down the third term tradition.

President Coolidge, meanwhile, has refrained from so much as blinking an eye to reveal his intentions regarding 1937. It is pointed out he has been in no way responsible for third-term talk but there are increasing evidence that he will be a receptive candidate.

President Strong in West.
"President Coolidge is exceptionally strong in the West," said Mulvane. "His strength comes from his solid business methods applied to government. The people not only admire him as the head of the Government, but respect him personally. They regard him as one of their own kind, as a product of the soil."

They got their first impression of him the very day he assumed office. The kerosene lamp that lighted the country home when he took the oath of office has illuminated his life since. The farmer regards him as a man who is devoting himself to the needs of all the people."

It was Mulvane and Archie Stephenson of Colorado, who Theodore Roosevelt bitterly assailed for their action on the credentials subcommittee of the Republican National Committee in 1912 in seating Taft delegates from the South. Mulvane remained with the Old Guard during the split. His willingness now to see a President serve two full terms following a partial term manifests the changed opinion among the party regulars.

General Impression in Matter.
It is a general impression, that while a recent candidate, Mr. Coolidge would rather not have premature discussion of what may happen in 1937 for reasons that it might embarrass his present administration. His action when president of the Massachusetts Senate is being recalled. Friends implored him to announce himself for Lieutenant Governor, but he refrained. Finally, on the last day of the session, he gave out this statement to the press: "I am a candidate for Lieutenant Governor."

President Coolidge starts the third week of his vacation with one engagement of political importance on his schedule. This will be his appearance Saturday at an outing at which the principal speaker beside himself will be Senator Butler of Massachusetts, chairman of the Republican National Committee, and his political and personal intimate. Senator Butler probably will be opposed for re-election next year by former Senator David I. Walsh, Democrat.

Youths Paroled From Reformatory Accused of Double Murder which showed that the wounded prisoner had not been subjected to any form of abuse.

O'Flaherty gave his age as 16, but the police say their records show that he is 13. He related the story of the double murder of the fifth youth, whose name the police are withholding, went to a house at Twentieth and O'Fallon streets last Thursday night, and spent the night there.

Friday, after lunch, about 12:30 p. m., they began planning the robbery. O'Flaherty said. The one who suggested robbing the H. S. Collins Printing Co., O'Flaherty said, was the youth who has not yet been arrested. He knew of the arrangements of the office in its former establishment at 1224 Washington avenue, from which it moved recently to the sixth floor of the Francis Building, 1531 Washington. He believed there was a payroll there on Fridays, and the five decided to go after it.

"We walked over there," said O'Flaherty, answering in the negative the question whether he and his companions had an automobile. Widmer had a 38-caliber short revolver. Bird had a 32 automatic; the other fellow had a 32-20, and Sproull and I had no guns. The guns were their own. We all went up in the elevator to the sixth floor, and walked into the printing office.

"Sproull and I were supposed to get the money. He got about $50 and I got not more than $5. We couldn't get the payroll and—hit a guy on the head with his pistol. The money we got was from the employer, Sproull and I searched them while the others pointed their guns at them."

"Started Shooting."
"Then we ran out and went down on the elevator, and those with guns started shooting as we got to the first floor. Bird was standing back of me in the elevator and he fired."

"I saw all three of them shooting; saw the fire flash from their guns. They were shooting at a policeman. He fired and hit me. I was hurt and we all piled out of the elevator."

"A man in citizen's clothes (Hammett) was standing in the rear corner. When he saw that I had no gun, he grabbed me, and the other two went on. When first arrested, I don't know which one shot him. O'Flaherty said he did not see which of his companions fired the two shots that entered the policeman's body, as his attention was distracted by his own wound. He said he did not know what the men did with their weapons, or what became of Patrolman Grogan's revolver, which was not found."

He said that after escaping from the building, "took a machine away from a fellow" whom they compelled to drive them to Twenty-first and Division streets. From there, he said, he was taken back to the house on O'Fallon street, from which the expedition had set out. He said Widmer went for a physician and that the 24 he had taken in the robbery went to pay the physician for dressing his wound, but he professed not to know what happened next. The physician's failure to report the case, under the circumstances, would render him liable to forfeiture of his license, if not to criminal prosecution as an accessory after the fact.

The wounded O'Flaherty was found at the home of Harry Dantridge, 3023 Clarence place, where Widmer and Sproull were also found, on neighborhood reports that a wounded man was being nursed there. When first arrested, he said he was shot accidentally Thursday, but Dantridge said he had been brought to the house Friday night.

O'Flaherty's Record.
O'Flaherty was arrested in a stolen automobile Sept. 24 last, and identified as having taken part in holding up drivers at delivery trucks and in the attempted robbery of the paymaster of the Missouri Bag Co. He was sent to the Boonville Reformatory, and last April a burglary was granted, on a physician's statement that his mother was seriously ill. He did not return at the time specified, and Supt. C. M. Harrison of the institution wrote letters to him and his father, without result.

Bird and another youth were arrested in a stolen automobile March 27, 1934. Bird had a loaded revolver and admitted committing two street holdups. April 28, 1934, he was sentenced to eight years at Boonville on two charges of delinquency, and he was paroled April 24 last, upon attaining the required 2700 merit marks.

Widmer was arrested April 18, 1934, while changing a tire on a stolen automobile. He also admitted stealing an automobile here and driving it to Lockport, Ill., where he was fined for a traffic violation and left the automobile as security. May 15, 1934, he was sentenced to Boonville for four years under the merit system.

Sproull received a five-year sentence to Boonville when he pleaded guilty before Circuit Judge Hamilton to participating in a $221 hold-up of a cashier at the Inland Valley Coal Co., 3522 Duncan avenue. He served from July 16, 1934, to March 18, 1935, when he was paroled under the merit system. Last week Supt. Harrison was told that Sproull was under arrest here.

An official of the reformatory was coming to St. Louis this week to seek O'Flaherty. The police record shows that Widmer was paroled to Mrs. Gertrude Walsh at 1103 Park avenue, and that Bird was paroled to a Mr. Miller of the Big Brothers organization. The person to whom a prisoner is paroled is supposed to undertake the responsibility of looking after his conduct for the remaining period of his term of sentence.

Leniency to Be Ended.
Leniency in the parole system at the Missouri Reformatory which has resulted in the release of many prisoners after they had served a small portion of their sentence, will be terminated at once, Gov. Baker said Tuesday in commenting on the fact that a score of paroled youths have been arrested by St. Louis police in recent months on criminal charges.

Gov. Baker stated he had notified Supt. Harrison and Parole Commissioner Steinbeck, member of the State Penal Board, that in future all parole applications from prisoners in the same manner as such applications from convicts in the penitentiary. He said the application would have to be passed upon and recommended by the board before paroles would be granted.

"Must see the recommendations before the paroles are granted," he said. Hereafter such paroles have to be passed through the hands of the Governor.

O'Flaherty's mother, who advised him to make the confession, said today that she had done all she could to keep her son out of bad company. His father, Thomas O'Flaherty, is employed by a parking company.

"I kept him in school as long as I could," the mother said, "and then I got him in a class to learn the printer's trade. He went to church and he would take me and his little sister to the movies. Most nights he was home when I was after him. He was arrested. I heard that he was arrested. I went to him and told him the truth was best, and that he should tell all he knew. He told me, before he told the police, the names of the lads that were with him, and that he and one other, Sproull, had no gun."

James Duncan, in whose automobile the robbers were carried from Sixteenth and Morgan streets to the place where they scattered, is held as a witness, though O'Flaherty's story supports his statement that he acted under compulsion.

New School at Hurst.
HURST, Ill., July 6.—Contract has been let for a new grade school for Hurst-Bush, to take care of the overflow from the old building. It is to be an eight-room school with four rooms completed and ready for use this fall. The cost is $21,000.

SECOND DEATH OF CHILD INCIDENT TO CELEBRATION HERE

Eli Cohn, 6, Succumbs to Burns Suffered When Lighting Fireworks at His Home Friday.

FIRST VICTIM DIED FROM TETANUS

Prompt Medical Attention Would Have Saved Albert Rudokas, Coroner Vint Says at Inquest.

Prompt medical attention and the administration of antitetanus serum would have saved the life of Albert Rudokas, 10 years old, of 3187 Morganford road, whose death Saturday was the first one here this year, incident to a premature celebration of Fourth of July, Coroner Vint declared at the inquest today.

The boy died from lockjaw, or tetanus, resulting from that infection in his hand of a blank cartridge in a pistol with which he was playing near his home a week ago. He died Saturday at the age of 10, in evident fear of a whipping, but in the meantime they gave him home treatment, following a druggist's advice.

The coroner pointed out that instructions, similar to those made public in past years, had been published in the newspapers some time prior to the Fourth of July, telling how to get antitetanus serum in case of powder burns, and the necessity of doing so.

Testimony of Boris Baiber, Albert's father, testified that he had warned his son to quit playing with the pistol. That evening, when the boy went to bed, he said he had been hurt, but offered no explanation. The next day, as the boy's home started on a Sunday outing, Albert's hand began swelling and a drug store man advised coating it with iodine and wrapping it. This was done. That evening the elder Rudokas tried to find two physicians for his son, but they were out, so the druggist's advice to use hot water and more iodine was followed again. Last Wednesday night Albert became ill and a physician had him sent next day to St. Louis hospital, where he died Saturday morning.

An accident verdict was returned. Eli Cohn, 6, son of Mr. and Mrs. Max Cohn of 2024 Thomas street, was the second child who died from premature celebration. Friday evening he was playing near his home with fireworks. A match which he was using to ignite them touched his light clothing, which burst into flames. Efforts of the boy's father to extinguish the blaze did not succeed until the boy had been severely burned.

A third fatality here due to Independence day celebration was that of a woman, who was struck by a stray bullet at one of the parties given by a youth in a yard some distance away. There are two patients at City Hospital under treatment for serious burns suffered Saturday. One is Robert Fowler, 10, son of George Fowler of 2024 Clifton place. He was setting off fireworks near his home and had touched a light to a display piece known as a "flower pot." It did not go off at once and he tried to examine it, but just then it went off and his face was badly burned.

The other is Edward Bickel, of 6213 Minnesota avenue. He was with a group of friends on the Meramec River bank when one of the group, after lighting a flare, tossed the match away, and the match happened to fall in a small can of powder. The powder exploded and Bickel was badly burned about his face and hand.

Others Treated for Burns.
Thirteen other persons were treated at city hospital yesterday for serious burns suffered in various ways over the week-end holidays. Of these, 26 others were treated there for minor powder burns, but none of these had to remain at the hospital.

Over the Fourth and yesterday the hospital used almost 400,000 units of antitetanus serum in treating about 400 men, women and children who had suffered powder burns of various kinds and degrees. Prompt use of this serum is necessary to avoid lockjaw and possible death, even for mild burns.

ADVERTISEMENTS
If I took a Vacation
I'd take a flashlight too. I know it would add greatly to the pleasure of my trip, to say nothing of the safety.

My flashlight would be the last thing put in my bag, but that I could get my hands on it instantly, coming and going. Seashore, mountain or lake, there would be hundreds of uses for a good flashlight.

I don't have to tell you that "good flashlight" and "Eveready" mean the same thing in any language.

RELEASE OF IOWA DOCTOR HELD FOR POISONINGS LIKELY

Son of Woman Victim Says Evidence Indicates Doctor's Charge in Mistake for Medicine.

By the Associated Press.
HARLAN, Ia., July 6.—Release of Dr. A. E. Humphrey, who was arrested last week on a warrant charging murder in connection with the death of a woman, is in prospect today as authorities prepared for further investigation of the deaths by poison of Butts and Mrs. C. F. Swift.

County Prosecutor R. F. Swift, on the death woman, indicated this morning that the charge against Humphrey might be dropped because of evidence his mother and Butts had succumbed to the effects of poison they had taken in the belief it was medicine.

A. L. Levensdal, druggist, whose store was the source of the poison, Swift, has asked authorities to investigate the case in an effort to fix responsibility for sale of the poison, which he admits apparently was dispensed from his store. He could offer no explanation of the case.

Health authorities have advised all residents of Harlan to destroy medicines similar to that purchased by Butts and Mrs. Swift.

the burgomaster and the President of the Storting, M. Lükke, delivered addresses of welcome, emphasizing the prestige Norway had gained by the daring of Amundsen and his companions.

Capt. Amundsen responded briefly, saying that he was overwhelmed and that he could not find words with which to voice his gratitude. Oslo in Summer Array.

Oslo in summer dress for the welcome to the explorers. The pier was decorated with green, the Norwegian colors and was flanked by two tall pylons bearing gilt wings of victory, while at the pier head floated American, Norwegian and German flags. The latter in honor of Feucht, who is a German.

The day was bright and warm, and by noon thousands of persons in their Sunday best assembled with a host of civil, military and naval dignitaries. All windows and roofs and other places visible along the line of march from the pier to the Palace were crowded.

Sailors from the battleship Torsholm and naval cadets formed a guard of honor. Five airplanes circled overhead, the banners of the expedition waving from the ship. The Aero Club gave a luncheon at which "The Star-Spangled Banner" was played in honor of Ellsworth. In a speech, Amundsen paid tribute to the hero of the party he had played in the enterprise.

More Glory for Norway.
Had Amundsen discovered the North Pole or a sixth continent he could have been tendered no greater reception than that. Norwegians regard bold explorations as their particular province and the spontaneity of the popular enthusiasm over the recent effort of Amundsen and his fellow explorers could not be questioned.

As a spectacular triumph nothing could have exceeded the expedition's appearance in the capital. The populace was overjoyed by the fact that the explorers came to Oslo in one of the planes on which they started for the Pole.

Whether the scientific results obtained by the expedition, including the survey of thousands of square miles of polar regions and soundings, justified the expenditure of at least $150,000, of which $40,000 was the cost of the plane lost in the ice, may be left to the experts to decide, but the Norwegians view the achievement as a meritorious, daring exploit redounding to the glory of the Norwegian nation.

Amundsen was presented with the gold medal for civic merit by King Haakon. Ellsworth, Riser-Larsen and Dietrichsen were decorated with the insignia of first-class commanders of the order of St. Olav. Omdahl and Feucht were made Chevaliers of the same order.

DEBS SELECTS ST. LOUIS AS A SOCIALIST CAPITAL

Plans Headquarters for One of 10 Districts While in City; Says National Offices May Be Located Here.

Reorganization of the Socialist party, inactive since the World War, is being attempted by Eugene V. Debs, labor leader and presidential candidate of the party in former elections, who left here today after laying plans for making St. Louis the capital of one of the ten districts into which he has divided the country for future work.

It is possible, Debs declared, that St. Louis will be made the permanent headquarters of the organization, the choice at present being between St. Louis and Chicago, because of advantages of their geographical and industrial location.

Debs spoke Saturday night at Triangle Hall, 4100 South Broadway, and yesterday an all-day meeting of his followers was held at the hall at which Debs spoke frequently in outlining his plans for reviving the Socialist party.

Attacks U. S. Prison System.
Elaborating on his criticisms Saturday night of the Government penitentiary system, Debs, who served a three-year term in Federal penitentiary at Atlanta for violating the espionage act, declared that "our penitentiaries are an adjunct of capitalism and can be cleaned up only by changing the system." He told of his experiences in prison, asserting that graft and ill treatment of prisoners abounded there.

"The day is coming," he said,

America about July 12. Ellsworth explained that he did not attend last night's banquet in honor of the explorers at the royal palace because funeral services were being held at Cleveland for his father, James W. Ellsworth, who died at his villa near Florence, Italy, June 3, at a time when the fate of the Amundsen-Ellsworth party was unknown.

Amundsen desires Ellsworth to join him for a rest at Amundsen's home at Bundejord near Oslo, but the American prefers to spend a couple of weeks in the Norway mountains before sailing for home.

TELLS OF BEING HIT BY STRAY BULLET WHEN IN CANOE

Arthur Hartman, 22 years old, of 4427 Wilcox avenue, who applied at the city hospital yesterday for treatment of a bullet wound in the left forearm, told police he was struck by a stray bullet at 2 a. m. Saturday when he was in a canoe on the Meramec River near Hollywood.

He was held at the hospital for investigation. A year ago he shot and killed George R. Cleary, nephew of the Guarantee Service Co., when Cleary attempted to act as peacekeeper in a dance-hall argument over a girl. Hartman was held by the coroner for the shooting, but was not indicted by the grand jury.

PHOTOGRAPH PATENT RULING

PHILADELPHIA, July 6.—Under a decision by the Federal Circuit Court of Appeals today, the Victor Talking Machine Co. and the Brunswick-Balke-Collender Co. lost in litigation of patent rights on an amplifying horn enclosed in cabinet talking machines.

The court affirmed the Federal District Court of Delaware which held that the patent, owned by the Victor company, was invalid because Eldridge R. Johnson, who claimed to be the inventor, acquired his knowledge for the concealed horn from a design by John Bailey Browning. The lower court also held that Browning's patent owned by the Brunswick-Balke-Collender Co. was invalid on the ground that he had abandoned his claim on the concealed horn.

The Victor company sued the Brunswick company for interference with the Johnson patent, and the Brunswick company sued the Victor company for using the Browning design.

CARTERSVILLE, Ill., July 4.—E. B. Burleson, local manager of the Central Illinois Public Service Co., has been transferred to the West Frankfort office, which is about three times the size of the one he has headed for the past five years. Roy Norton takes his place here.

SYNAGOGUE DEAL TAKEN TO COURT

Suit to Determine Title in B'Nai Abraham Edifice Being Heard.

Dissension within Congregation B'Nai Abraham, Glasgow place and Dickson street, was aired before Circuit Judge Falkenhainer today at trial of the congregation's suit against Samuel Arky to determine title to its edifice.

Julius Goldsmith, a Deputy Sheriff, who is president of the congregation, related its history to the witness stand. It was organized in 1917 by Arky and others and was named in honor of Arky's father, Abraham Arky. It now has 87 members.

The house of worship was purchased from a Mormon convert for $10,000 by Arky, Morris Cummins, Morris Reis and Isaac Romanovsky, who in turn were deeded title to B'Nai Abraham at a profit of $1000, each getting $300, Goldsmith testified. He added that Reis and Romanovsky were their profit, and the other two waived theirs. Arky stating the congregation "owed me nothing."

A banquet to celebrate the acquisition followed, with formal transfer of the deeds scheduled for the same time. But, said the witness, Arky spoiled the banquet by refusing to surrender his share of the title, and has since refused.

Arky maintains transfer of the property to the congregation was invalid for lack of consideration. He maintains also that the congregation present owner of the property, and that he should be compelled to surrender his share until that sum is paid. He was withdrawn from membership in the congregation, of which he was president until the present transfer developed.

PIPE ORGAN IS PERSONAL PROPERTY, NOT REAL ESTATE

The pipe organ in the former home of the late C. B. Parsons in Jefferson County is personal property, not real estate, Circuit Judge held today.

He entered a judgment for $1000 in favor of Mrs. Francis Denvir of 15 Washington terrace in support of her claim to that effect. The judgment is against S. H. Denvir, son of the late C. B. Parsons, who is now in the hospital at St. Louis.

She charged that Crowe would not give up the organ after he bought the Parsons home, containing the organ was part of the realty which he had purchased. Mrs. Denvir said the organ originally cost $4000 and was now worth $10,000 and the Court split the difference. Mrs. Denvir is now the wife of John B. Denvir, an attorney.

FEDERAL AID URGED TO CUT COAL PRICES

Restoration of 'Normal Competitive Basis' in Anthracite Industry Favored.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, July 6.—Congress is asked in a report by the Federal Trade Commission, made public last night, to take steps to restore the anthracite industry to a "normal competitive basis" and thus assure an adequate supply at reasonable prices.

The report, dealing with past high prices of the fuel, viewed "persistent efforts of the Department of Justice to disintegrate the anthracite combination" as successful to a large degree and suggested similar action by Congress to obviate high premium prices in times of actual or anticipated shortage. Complete restoration of competition in the industry, in the opinion of the commission, would be preferable to price regulation.

Of the $8,000,000 tons of anthracite mined annually, 70 per cent was said to have been produced by eight large companies, now or recently owned by or affiliated with railroads, and that the remainder was produced by 100 independent companies. The commission reported that the railroad companies published prices periodically, but that they failed to reflect current changes in supply and demand, while the independents simply took the highest price obtainable.

Information Bureau Urged.
Development of a public statistical organization to regularly publish information regarding the industry and coal prices was recommended, along with a suggestion that greater price reductions be effected in the late spring and summer to encourage earlier buying by private consumers.

As additional measures to prevent frequent recurring anthracite shortages, the report recommended education of the consumer in effective use of economical substitutes, systematic development of earlier and more rational buying by municipalities, increased storage equipment at mines and distributing agencies, and enlargement of mine capacity to meet periods of unusual demand.

Large Profits Exacted.
The commission credited the high coal prices in 1922 to an actual shortage, but similar top prices charged by independent operators in 1923 were held due to an anticipated shortage. A wide range of prices at the mine in the fall of 1923 also were declared to have enabled wholesalers to exact large profits after the brief strike in September of that year. Speculation among wholesalers was held by the commission to have flared in the high price of anthracite in 1923, much coal being said to have passed through two or more wholesalers before reaching the retailer.

STATE TO DROP CASE AGAINST MILLMEN

From the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
JEFFERSON CITY, July 6.—The State will not seek a rehearing of the antitrust case against the St. Louis Millmen's Association and its 16 members, which were found not guilty by the State Supreme Court of charges of violating the State antitrust laws, Attorney-General Otto announced today. The decision acquitting the millmen was handed down by court en banc last Friday.

Otto made the announcement following a conference here with former Attorney-General Jesse W. Barrett of St. Louis, who instituted the antitrust suit in 1921.

As has been told, the Supreme Court held that the State had failed to prove satisfactorily the charge of violating the Missouri antitrust law by price fixing, fixing of competition and attempted control of the manufacture and sale of millwork in St. Louis and St. Louis County. Otto said that the decision not to seek a rehearing was on the ground that the State had no additional evidence to submit. The submission of the case was completed during the term of Barrett, as Attorney-General.

The last body taken from the ruins, that of a man, was partially identified as Francis Driscoll, said to be a labor organizer.

The club served meals. Customers took their own or bought liquor from bootleggers they met there.

Three Inquiries to Be Begun Today to Fix Cause of Building's Collapse.

By the Associated Press.
BOSTON, July 6.—The list of dead in the collapse of the Pickwick Club building Saturday probably will remain at 43. Fire Chief Sennott said this afternoon after firemen had removed the debris from that part of the dance floor which was still standing. This work was ordered by Mayor Curley after he visited the ruins early today and found laborers working only in the excavated part of the building site.

All night long the search had gone forward. Under the concentrated glare of dozens of arc lights, a large force of men had, brick by brick, stick after stick, worked their way down through the mass of debris, pausing now and again to lift out another body.

By this morning they had found nearly all of the bodies of those about whom this early morning life had centered. "Ella's" body, Miss Ella Cauley, was brought out pitifully bruised. In her dress they found the money for which she had smiled away the broad bandyings of the guests that she might realize her hope of marriage and a home.

The bodies of Frank Tillo and Neddo Flanagan, who had won many local ring battles, also were recovered. Inspector Benjamin Alexander of the Boston police, who had thought to add another arrest to the several made at the club, died in the wreck. Some of the bodies found were of persons paying their first visit to the club; others were those of habitués.

Wife's Picture Over His Heart.
One man, his wife's picture in the pocket over his heart, was found in the dead arms of another woman. Occasionally a worker picked up a bottle of pills or whiskey unbroken by the force that brought death to so many.

There are several untouched pockets in the debris that may hold bodies. Early last night the discoverers came in quick succession, so that the bottle of known dead rose rapidly from 10 to 27. Then the work was more difficult. Great masses of foundation stone had to be lifted by derrick. At 4 o'clock this morning the body of a woman was found and an hour and a half later the body of her companion was taken out.

AIR SERVICE GREATLY
EXTENDED IN EUROPENew Routes With Reasonable Fares Being Installed in Various Capitals.STOCKHOLM, Sweden, July 11.
Airplanes will be used in Europe much more this year than ever before as a regular means of quick first-class passenger and freight traffic. The main services that run regularly from London, Paris and Berlin all over Europe are well known. What is not so well known is that in other capitals routes are being opened up on a large scale.

In Stockholm there is a choice of several ways. Planes in one service fly in a few hours to Berlin. By another one can go to Hamburg and from there, via Amsterdam, to Paris or London. Eastward there is a daily service to Helsinki, which connects with another to Riga and Vilna. At Riga one can catch the Moscow plane, which in 12 hours flies to the heart of Soviet Russia.

Travel Well Systematized.
The Russian Government has big ideas for airplane services, but these are not all in working order. An ambitious plan for a regular service to Kabul broke down because it was found that the air currents of the Himalayas wrecked planes wholesale. One makes no special preparations for a passenger air journey in Europe—simply book a ticket as though going by rail. There is no need to wear flying kit or even a steamer cap, for journeys are made in covered saloons where travelers are as much protected from outside breezes as in covered automobiles.

The larger passenger planes hold ten persons, besides the pilots and attendant. The smaller planes seat four. The larger planes travel at about 130 miles an hour, the small at about 100 miles. That seems a tremendous speed, but in the air one receives no such sensation of speed as on land.

Saves Twenty Hours in a Day.
The saving in time is much greater than these figures would indicate, because the planes can take almost straight courses, which trains cannot. The rail and steamer journey from Helsinki requires 21 hours; the small seaplane does it in a little over three hours.

The rail journey from Moscow to London requires between four and five days. By air (including a night in the train from Koenigsberg to Berlin) it takes less than a day and a half and in special circumstances less than a day. The fares vary. Over many routes they are only a fraction higher than first-class railroad fares. Over other routes fares are twice and even three times as much. Of course airplane-passenger fares do not pay operating costs. The Governments of Europe realize that they must have a reserve of skilled flying men and airplanes. Therefore they heavily subsidize the private airplane companies.

U. S. WANTS FRENCH DEBT BODY TO ACT

Washington Lets It Be Known Is Desires Commission to Have Plenary Powers.

By DAVID LAWRENCE.
Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, July 6.—The United States Government has politely let it be known to the French Government that there would be disappointment in America if the financial commission which is to come here soon to discuss the funding of the French war debt, were to be without plenary powers to act.

While the United States does not mind a preliminary conference to determine details and viewpoints, it is felt that this is what M. Farnetier did when he came here nearly three years ago as the special envoy of the French Government. He confessed then that he had no power to act and simply came to investigate. No commission or envoy specially authorized to negotiate has appeared on behalf of France since that time. Such conversations as have occurred since then have been purely informal, both here and at Paris. Ambassador Jusserand and his successor, M. Daeschner, have discussed the war debts with the American Government, but neither has been authorized to present formal proposals.

What the United States Government hopes now is that the French Government is actually considering proposals that can be discussed seriously when the French commission will be able to transmit the suggestions of the American Government and get definite replies from the French cabinet.

Substantial Progress. In other words, substantial progress on the French debt problem is confidently expected. Indeed, unless it is made known to the French that the French will have some difficulty later on in securing the same friendly state of mind as exists today toward the French debt.

There is no doubt that a frank acknowledgment of the war debt with a practicable proposal for payment, even though it extends over a longer term of years than was given the British, will meet with a favorable response at this time. What the persons intimately identified with the negotiations fear is that a protracted delay will cause an unfavorable comment in Congress and make it difficult for the Funding Commission created by Congress to persuade the Senate and House that the scheme finally recommended is based on ability to pay.

Public opinion of the debtor and creditor countries, it is realized, will play a controlling part in the decisions finally made. Thus officials here are inclined to look askance at the editorialists' cabined as reflecting the sentiment of the Belgian press. The question contained therein that America is commercially motivated and has been that way since the war does not sit well on the minds of those who recall the philanthropy manifested by the American people toward Belgium in her darkest hours, let alone the funds advanced to the Government.

Attitude of Belgium. It is not accepted here for a moment that the cable editors represent the true feeling of the Belgian people, but simply that section of the Belgian press which is endeavoring to make it hard for the American ministry to make a settlement with America.

While Belgium was probably the hardest hit of all the allied countries, her comeback has been remarkable and there is nothing but praise for the way the Belgians have reconstructed their war-torn land. But in accordance as capacity to pay is demonstrated, the American Government feels that payment on funds advanced is a solemn obligation. To Belgium, as to France, there probably will be an elimination charge for a number of years, but here, too, some definite steps must be taken to begin payments on the principal. France and Belgium are expected to make a settlement this year. This is not merely an optimistic hope, so far as America is concerned, but the American consequences to French and Belgium credit are deemed here to be factors which will accelerate action on the other side, too.

WALES ON HUNT STALKS PREY ON HANDS AND KNEES
When Within 150 Yards of Animal He Opens Fire, Piercing the Heart.

By the Associated Press.
UMVURA, Southern Rhodesia, July 6.—The Prince of Wales who is spending a few days hunting game in this region, Saturday killed a blue wildebeest, described as the largest of its kind ever shot here. It was admired by all the assembled hunters and brought the Prince unstinted congratulations. Galloping to within discreet distance of the animal, Wales dismounted and stalked it on hands and knees to within 150 yards. He fired, piercing the heart. The Prince and his party are living in a beautiful camp, the building of which occupied 200 natives for six weeks, but which will disappear soon through the ravages of the white ant. The days of the visitors have been spent stalking animals. After supper in the evenings they have gathered round the camp fire singing songs, and the Prince with his skuldie has been the merriest of the jolly party.

Girl Exhausted and Faint.
By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, July 5.—Weak from hunger after tramping the streets for three days in search of employment, a well-dressed girl who later described herself as Jane Smith of Chicago, collapsed near Times Square yesterday. She told Bellevue Hospital authorities that she left Chicago with only her railroad ticket and five cents after she had been unable to obtain employment there. She evaded all attempts at a more complete identification, but said she was born in Galveston, Tex., and that her father was a Chicago architect who died several years ago.

Sour Stomach

"Phillips Milk of Magnesia" is Far Better than Soda

Instead of soda hereafter take a little "Phillips Milk of Magnesia." It is water any time for indigestion or sour, acid, gassy stomach, and relief will come instantly.
For fifty years genuine "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" has been prescribed by physicians because it overcomes such troubles as much acid in the stomach as a saturated solution of bicarbonate of soda, leaving the stomach sweet and free from all gases. It neutralizes acid fermentations in the bowels and gently urges the souring waste from the system without purging. Besides, it is more pleasant to take than soda. Insist upon "Phillips." Twenty-five cent bottles, any drug store.

YOUTH DROWNED AFTER BECOMING ILL IN ROWBOAT

Stanley Smith, 19, Fell From Craft While With Party of Four on Upper Creve Coeur Lake.

Upper Creve Coeur Lake is being dragged today for the body of Stanley Smith, 19 years old, of 1527 Engleholm avenue, St. Louis County, who fell from a rowboat and was drowned at 10 a. m. yesterday.
Smith, who was employed in the commercial art department of the Post-Dispatch, was one of a party that spent the week-end camping and boating at the lake.
He went out in a rowboat yesterday, accompanied by Stephen Schauer, 5110 Wilson avenue, and Misses Lenna Schildknecht, 4059 Page boulevard, and Alice Lacy, 5710 Raymond avenue. Smith was seated in the rear seat and suddenly grasping his head with his hands, fell backward into the lake and was seen no more.
Schauer could not swim, but George Robinson, 1110 Robbins avenue, standing on a pier nearby, swam to the rowboat and dived for the body but could not find it.
Friends of Smith said he had suffered from sudden spells of illness and advanced the theory that illness caused his fall from the boat.
Richard Moll of 3513 Gravois avenue, a harness maker, was drowned Saturday afternoon when he stepped into deep water in Barnhart Creek, near Kimmswick, Mo.

MOVE FOR INTERNATIONAL ACTION AGAINST COMMUNISM

Anti-Bolshevik Groups in 21 Nations Represented in Organization.
By the Associated Press.
GENEVA, July 5.—A petition asking collective international action against communism has been sent to all Governments by the "International Entente Against the Third International." This organization, with headquarters at Geneva, represents anti-Bolshevik groups in 21 nations.
The petition presents communism as "a grave peril threatening to engulf all countries," and pleads for international co-operation against that menace. It urges prompt action "before communism has further opportunity to grip the vitals of national life, national security and national institutions," and proposes agreements among the various Governments to prevent preparation in one country for revolutionary aggressions in another.
It also suggests that soviet embassies, legations and Red Cross missions be "prevented from abusing diplomatic privileges or hospitality by secretly propagating communism in the countries where they are received."
The petition is signed by Theodore Aubert as president of the permanent bureau of the "International Entente Against the Third International." Aubert is a Geneva lawyer who defended Maurice Conrad, Swiss engineer, who shot and killed Vladimir Vorovsky, soviet envoy to the Second Lausanne conference at Lausanne, Switzerland, May 10, 1923. Conrad was acquitted by a Lausanne court. He admitted he fired the shot that killed Vorovsky, but pleaded provocation because his uncle and other relatives had been killed by the bolsheviks.

PLOT TO WRECK CALLES' TRAIN

Inquiry Ordered After Metal Filings Are Found in Engine.
By the Associated Press.
MEXICO CITY, July 5.—The engineers of the presidential train en route to Mexico City discovered metal filings in the gears of the engine yesterday and it is believed that they were placed there by disgruntled employees in an attempt to wreck the train. Four foremen of the Gomez Palacios roundhouse have been dismissed for failure to inspect the train properly before it started on its journey and the case has been placed in the hands of the Federal authorities for an investigation.
Gen. Espinosa Cordova, traveling aboard the presidential train, declares that President Calles attached no importance to the discovery of the filings, merely ordering that the foremen be dismissed.

EXTRADITION ASKED FOR NEGRO

Requisition Papers Sent From South Carolina for Man, Brother of Victim Identified.

The negro who was arrested here Saturday charged with a murder in Mergett, S. C. 21 years ago, will be taken back to South Carolina within a few days if Gov. Baker honors requisition papers which are being forwarded. Allen Hethington of 321 South Broadway says the negro is Samuel Brown, who shot and killed Hethington's brother, Larry, on the street in Mergett on Aug. 13, 1904, after a labor dispute on a farm managed by Hethington. Hethington, a carpenter, told the police he recognized the negro as the slayer while both were working on a building at Lettingwell and St. Louis avenues.

Sheriff J. M. Poulnot of Mergett also has told the police he recognizes the negro's photograph as that of Samuel Brown. The negro denies that he was ever at Mergett, or that he was known by the name of Brown.

The two winners in contests for dollar annuals also took first honors in contests unlimited as to price. They were the Nor'easter, published by pupils of the Northeast High School, and the Carthaginian, published by high school pupils at Carthage.

$20,000,000 PUBLIC UTILITY STOCK SALE BY ST. LOUISANS

W. S. McCall and R. W. Morrison of Central Power Co. Sell Shares to Chicago Corporation.

Sale of the common stock of the Central Power and Light Co., a public utility company operating in five Southern States and Mexico, and which has its headquarters in the Chemical Building here, to the Middle West Utilities Co. of Chicago, was announced today by Warren S. McCall, president of the local company.

All the stock was owned by McCall and Ralph W. Morrison, vice president of the company. McCall said the transaction involved more than $20,000,000. He said the company was a healthy concern, having bank deposits of approximately $2,000,000, gross earnings last year of $5,300,000, and net earnings of $1,900,000.

The Central Power and Light Co. was organized in 1916. It operates directly in Arkansas and has subsidiaries in Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas, Mississippi and Mexico. Electric light and power, gas, ice, water and electric railway transportation are the utilities supplied in one or more forms to 65 communities. The principal gas companies are located at Emporia, Kan., and McAlester, Ok.

Headquarters of the company will be removed to Chicago, McCall said.

Naval Reserves Go on Cruise.

Eighty naval reservists from St. Louis, 50 from St. Joseph and 25 from Kansas City, left St. Louis Saturday night for Chicago to begin a 15-day training cruise on the Great Lakes aboard the U. S. S. Wilmette. The itinerary will be Harbor Springs, Mackinac Island and the Straits of Sault Ste. Marie. The entire crew of the Wilmette will be composed of naval reserve men, and will be under the command of Commander G. F. Schwartz of St. Louis, with Dr. R. B. H. Gradwohl, Lieutenant-Commander, as medical officer. Naval reserves from this, the Ninth Naval Reserve District, are also given training afloat on subchasers on the Mississippi River.

EIGHTH GRADE EXERCISES AT RESIDENT OPEN-AIR SCHOOL

For the first time since the establishment of the Resident Open-Air School in 1918, eighth grade graduation exercises will be held at this school. Five girls have met the scholastic requirements for graduation while they were there regaining their health. There have been many girls at this school before who were in the eighth grade, but they have always returned to their district school in time for graduation. As these five girls were not able to be physically discharged until this month, it was decided to hold extensive graduation exercises for them Saturday, and the girls will wear dresses which they have made themselves. The gowns are sleeveless and cut extremely low in the neck so that the children are exposed to the sun and air. This mode of dress has just recently been adopted at this school, and the girls will wear their first dresses of this design at the exercises.

The Resident School is similar to the day open-air schools in its routine, except that it gives day and night supervision. The children who do not gain properly in the day schools are sent there. The maximum length of time a child stays is from nine to 12 months. It is maintained by the Tuberculosis Society and the Board of Education, the latter providing the teachers and schoolroom equipment, and the society paying the rest of the expenses.

EMPLOYE KILLED IN ST. LOUIS HOLDUP
Others Beaten in Attempted Robbery of an Ice-Cream Plant.

Robbers, armed and masked, who entered the plant of the Ridge Ice Cream Co. at Ridge Twenty-eighth street, East St. Louis, at 9 o'clock last night, shot and killed one of the night crew men, beat two others with revolvers and fled empty-handed.

Apparently with the purpose of killing up the crew before attempting their objective—the safe which contained three receipts—the robbers passed through the first floor front office, a passageway leading into the manufacturing and boiler room at the rear. On their way they accepted two employees and pushed them to the rear, where they called to the others to "stick up."

Employee Is Slain.
Daniel Hannefin, 40 years old, 284 North Twenty-eighth street, St. Louis, refused to comply with the command, when one of the robbers thrust a revolver at the man. Instead he struck at the man and the robber knocked down with a blow to the head the revolver. Hannefin got up and the robber fired, the bullet striking Hannefin in the forehead.

Another robber about the same age struck Robert Butler, 225 East Louis, twice over the head with a revolver, while the third robber shot which narrowly missed Earl Ferris of 2000 State street. Then struck Arnold Dockery of Cleveland avenue, East St. Louis. The men then were made on their faces, with one robbing standing guard, while the two others left, presumably to escape the robbery of the safe.

Hannefin had fallen on a coal but managed to crawl a few yards, where he lay bleeding the wound in the forehead. More than 30 minutes the lone man stood guard over the men, at length a knocking noise heard from one of the boilers. He then observed to the robber if the boiler was not attended would blow up. "Get up and look at it, then," the robber ordered.

Police Summoned.
With the command to the others to move, announcing he would back in a moment, the robber in the direction his companions had taken. He did not return and in a few minutes the men were summoned.

Unconscious, was taken in an ambulance to St. Louis Hospital, where he died in minutes. He had been shot through the head, the bullet emerging at the back. He is survived by widow and four children.

Investigation by the police disclosed the safe had not been tampered with, and presumably the two robbers had fled immediately after the shooting. The men were described as about 25 years old. They wore straw hats and were coatless. They carried blue-steel revolvers and wore blackerchief masks over their faces.

EMPLOYE KILLED IN ST. LOUIS HOLDUP
Others Beaten in Attempted Robbery of an Ice-Cream Plant.

Robbers, armed and masked, who entered the plant of the Ice Cream Co. at Ridge Street, East St. Louis, at 9 o'clock last night, shot and killed one of the night crew men, beat two others with revolvers and fled empty-handed.

Apparently with the purpose of capturing the crew before attempting their objective—the office which contained three receptacles—the robbers passed through the first floor front office and a passageway leading into the manufacturing and boiler room at the rear. On their way they captured two employees and forced them to the rear, where they called to the others to "stick up."

Employee Is Slain.
Hannafin, 40 years old, 1814 North Twenty-eighth street, St. Louis, refused to comply with the command, when one of the robbers thrust a revolver at him. Instead he struck at the robber and the robber knocked him down with a blow to the head. Hannafin got up and the robber fired, the bullet striking Hannafin in the forehead. The robber about the same time struck Robert Butler, 325 East Twenty-second street, East St. Louis, twice over the head with a revolver, while the third robber shot which narrowly missed Hannafin's head.

Police Summoned.

With the command to the others to move, announcing he would back in a moment, the robber in the direction his companion had taken. He did not return and in a few minutes the robbers were summoned. Hannafin, unconscious, was taken in an ambulance to St. Louis Hospital, where he died in minutes. He had been shot through the head, the bullet emerging in the back. He is survived by widow and four children.

Investigation by the police disclosed the safe had not been tampered with, and presumably the two robbers had fled immediately after the shooting. The robbers were described as about 25 years old. They wore straw hats and were coatless. They carried steel revolvers and wore black masks over their faces.

SHOOTING OF WOMAN TERMED ACCIDENT

Horace C. Garner, 22, Exonerated in Case of Milliner Hit by Stray Bullet.

A coroner's jury returned a verdict of accident at the inquest today into the shooting of Miss Stephanie Guerdan, 22 years old, a milliner, who was killed by a stray bullet as she sat sewing in her home at 2528 Iowa avenue, Saturday.

The verdict exonerated Horace C. Garner, 22 years old, a mechanic, living at 2707A Keokuk street, who appeared voluntarily at the Wyoming Street Station yesterday, and told Capt. McGuire he believed he had fired the shot which killed his neighbor. Today, he repeated his explanation of the accident to the coroner's jury.

The two houses are in the middle of the block, each a few doors from the intersection of Keokuk street and Iowa avenue. The line between the rear porches forms the hypotenuse of the triangle, the distance being about 200 feet. Garner said he returned home about 1 p. m. and took out his .25 caliber German automatic pistol, which was loaded, to the rear porch, intending to remove the cartridge. He held the screen door partially open with his foot, at the same time attempting to work the mechanism.

The weapon was discharged, the bullet passing through the foliage of a large tree, which shaded the porch. Garner said he then replaced the weapon in a drawer, and gave the incident no further thought until he read of Miss Stephanie's death in Sunday morning newspapers. He then visited a brother, and later called on the coroner, to whom he related the circumstances. With the coroner's approval, he was released on his promise to appear at the inquest.

2 GIRLS DIE WHEN CAR UPSETS

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

RICH HILL, Mo., July 6.—Within a few minutes after leaving their Sunday School class yesterday, Adeline Trout and Ruby Finch were killed by the overturning of their automobile, seven miles west of this city. Miss Trout, 17 years old, was the daughter of Willard Trout and Miss Finch, 18, the daughter of L. R. Finch, both farmers of the Sprague vicinity.

The young women had attended Sunday school at Sprague and were returning home when they lost control of their car on a steep hill. When found under the wreckage of the car at the bottom of the hill, Miss Trout was dead and Miss Finch died as she was being pulled from the car.

LEAGUE ASSEMBLY TO CONSIDER NEW ARBITRATION PLAN

Proposal Is That Various Nations Sign General Agreement Supplemented by Regional Pacts.

ADHERENCE OF U. S. DESIRED

Germany, Also, Counted on to Join in Agreement—Nation Refusing to Arbitrate Would Be 'Aggressor.'

By ALBIN JOHNSON, Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch and New York World.

GENEVA, July 6.—A general undertaking by all members of the League of Nations—and also Germany, the United States and other non-League countries—to agree to virtual compulsory arbitration in justiciable disputes, and to submit other controversies which might lead to war to an arbitral body.

According to reliable information, the theory of an international arrangement (or protocol) directly under the league, for the furtherance of world peace, is far more advanced than it was last March, when the Benes protocol was scuttled. That pact was killed; but out of it was born a termination to secure the principles involved in another form.

The pre-protocol forces at the last assembly, which tackled the problem from a different angle, were the attack was made on the three-line front of security, disarmament and arbitration in the Benes scheme. It this time will be concentrated upon the single front of arbitration. Through arbitration the league hopes to gain security, and with security will come disarmament.

Compulsory Arbitration. The plan, as outlined, is for a general arbitration agreement whereby every nation agrees to accept every compulsory arbitration in all justiciable disputes. Aside from the general agreement, regional agreements for arbitration will be urged. For instance, Germany will have separate pacts with Poland, Belgium, France, Czechoslovakia and other countries. These a turn will have separate pacts with each other—the extent of the arbitration, of course, to be governed by the situations between the contracting parties.

Through the general pact each nation not only would violate its treaty with specific powers, should it refuse to arbitrate or accept decisions of an arbitral body, but with every other power included in the agreement or protocol. Germany, for instance, refusing to arbitrate with Poland, would be breaking a treaty not only with Poland, but with all members of the league. Thus Berlin would automatically be an "aggressor."

Canada, as a result of Mackenzie King's note to the league regarding the Benes protocol, is looked upon as the logical leader in the arbitration scheme. At present Canada is far ahead of the rest of the British empire in regard to arbitration. Mackenzie King's pronouncement, in which the league places so much importance, is:

"As Canada believes firmly in the submission of international disputes to joint inquiry or arbitration and has shared in certain notable undertakings in this field, we would be prepared to consider acceptance of the compulsory jurisdiction of the permanent court in justiciable disputes, with certain reservations, and to consider methods of supplementing the provisions of the permanent court for settlement of justiciable disputes, including methods of joint investigation, reserving ultimate decision in domestic matters and without undertaking further obligations to enforce decisions in case of other nations."

With Canada, in the arbitration campaign, will be associated all neutrals—Sweden, Denmark, Norway, Holland, Spain, Switzerland, the South American countries and the Baltic and Balkan States, can be counted upon to lend weight.

Mexico Protects Its Shipping. VERA CRUZ, July 6.—A decree just been issued forbidding foreign vessels to carry passengers between Mexican ports, the step being taken to protect Mexican shipping. excluding the Sarro region, the population of which is estimated at another 750,000. Thus, the population of Germany is about the same as it was in 1908, whereas at the outbreak of the war, it was roughly 68,000,000.It is estimated that Germany lost nearly 7,000,000 by the cession of various territories under the terms of the peace treaty, another 2,750,- 000 by deaths during the war and 2,500,000 through a decreased birth rate during the war period.But for the war it is pointed out that Germany would now have had a population of about 75,000,000.
Nevertheless, the population is steadily increasing. As compared with the census taken in 1919, there are about 3,350,000 more people, or an increase of 5 1/2 per cent.Berlin, with a population of 3,- 900,000, is still the second largest city of Europe. Hamburg is the second largest German city with just over a million. Cologne, Munich and Dresden each have more than 600,000, while Breslau has a little more than half a million.COOLIDGE ACCUSED OF DODGING

WASHINGTON, July 6.—The proposed demonstration by the Ku

August promises to be very embarrassing to the President. Anti-Klan leaders here charge him with trying to "pass the buck" and are going to bombard him with petition after petition.There are signs of weakening on the part of local officials. Col. C.
O. Sherrill, Superintendent of Public Buildings and Public Parks, has sent to Swampscott all the information he has on the controversy over the permit to use the Washington Monument grounds for a religious service after the Ku Klux parade. L. Mueller, representative of the Imperial Wizard, holds that his organization has as much right to march over the streets of the national capital as any other fraternal order, and he demands it. Col. Sherrill agrees with Mueller that his organization has a right to use the open theater that so many people use. "The opponents of the program are going over the heads of the city government and Sherrill to the President to try to compel him to express his views. They will not be satisfied with a declaration that the matter is left to the local authorities. They contend Sherrill is instructions from him. In this matter they assert Sherrill is acting for the President.CITY PLAN BODY ENGINEER TO

to Pass Bill at Its MeetingThe City Council at Belleville, at be asked to pass an ordinance to check the habit of motorists of chasing an alarm is given. The bill will provide that autos must remain a distance of 600 feet in the rear of fire apparatus or ambulances.Autos also will have to park their cars a distance of 600 feet from the scene of a fire, so as not to interfere with the activities of the firemen.Another regulation will prohibit the carrying of red and green lights on any vehicle other than fire apparatus or ambulances.

ABUNDANT HARVEST IN RUSSIA

By the Associated Press.
MOSCOW, July 6.—Such an abundant harvest is expected by the authorities as to necessitate the mobilization of large amounts of state funds for gathering it. Anticipating a shortage in capital, a conference of soviet bank directors has been held at which it was decided to attract private capital for realizing the grain harvest. Recommendations were sent to the Government that it create normal conditions for private contractors.The conference also recommended increased importation of grain, which it was pointed out, are badly needed by the peasantry.

SHANGHAI, July 6.—The new American Minister to China, J. V.

rangements here and departed yesterday for Peking aboard a vessels. It was announced here that the municipal authorities intended to cut off the electricity supplying the Chinese industries, particularly the mills, Monday morning. Otherwise the situation remained unchanged.A Chinese, about to attack a Municipal Constable from behind, was shot and killed here Saturday evening by a sailor from the United States destroyer MacLeish, who went to the rescue of the Constable.The shooting occurred during trouble at one of the cotton mills involved in the present strike. Hundreds of Chinese, assembled outside the mill, had threatened to burn it unless some of their comrades, who had been arrested, were released.A Constable then arrested one of the leaders of the mob who was urging the coolies to advance on the mill. A companion of the arrested leader was about to spring on the back of the Constable when he was shot by an American sailor whose name was given as Disk.Two foreigners in the mill who witnessed the entire affair said the action of the American sailor prevented what promised to be a most serious situation.By the Associated Press.

Army Looks to Pershing
To Halt Coolidge SlashMembers of General Staff, Filled With Dismay Over Prospect of Another $30,000,000 Cut in Appropriation, Believe Ex-Leader Is Only Man Who Can Make Appeal to President.By CHARLES MICHELSON, Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch and the New York World.
WASHINGTON, July 6.—The Army of the United States is looking for a hero who will volunteer for the most dangerous of peacetime services—that is, to tell the President of the United States that he is making a mistake.President Coolidge hopes the War Department will cut its estimate of expenses $30,000,000 more.
As the army, in trying to meet the President's previously expressed desire for economy, has already shaved to a point where many of officers believe the efficiency of the military establishment is suffering, the prospect of a still further cut fills the General Staff with dismay.Secretary of War Weeks championed army opinion until illness forced him from his post, but as the President persists in his $30,- 000,000 demand, the Secretary evidently failed to convince him. Acting Secretary Dwight F. Davis, probably feeling that it is useless for him to butt in where his superior could produce no effect, is keeping his hands off. It would come near a court-martial offense for any member of the General Staff to propagandize against any policy decided on by the Commander in Chief, so their hands are tied.In this emergency the army is looking straight at Gen. Pershing, and the General is reported to be about ready to accept the commission. His prestige and the faith the people have in him make him the one man who might make the difference and get away with it.Defeats Own Purpose.
The army has no regular channel by which it can invoke popular support. Army officers feel that if they could once get their case before the people the reaction might avert the President from too drastic economy, particularly as they think they can show that this economy defeats its own purpose, inasmuch as the saving now will result, in their opinion, in greater expenditure later. To prove their position they cite the recent destruction by fire of officers' quarters at one of the posts. There is no money to rebuild. The department gives quarters allowance to the homeless officers, who must live in town. This, they say, will amount to $125,000 a year. A single year's expenditure for rent would reconstruct the quarters.Army faith in the effect of popular opinion on the President is based largely on what happened in the matter of National Defense Day. The President was swayed by pacifist organizations against mobilization and had about made up his mind to do away with it.
The army regarded the principle as of great value. The job of the General Staff is to have the mili-COOLIDGE'S ADDRESS
'WORSE THAN USELESS'London Daily News Says Cambridge Speech Does Not Serve Cause of Peace.By the Associated Press.
LONDON, July 6.—The Daily News today takes issue with President Coolidge's Cambridge address.
Such speeches do not serve the cause of peace and can do no good in America, while in Europe they do positive harm, it says, adding:
"The implication in this and similar speeches appears to be that love of peace is almost exclusively an American virtue and that the enemies distracting Europe have their roots in a savage passion for war in itself.""These enemies arise from no such thing, but from jealousies and fears from which America is free of time, money and effort that has characterized our preparations for every struggle we have been forced into. So when the President's position became known 10,000 telegrams from all over the country sympathize with any reduction of the expenses of government. At the same time, the President's position, and he finally came through with the suggestion that Fourth of July would be a fitting date for what the army had in mind. How these telegrams were provoked has never been revealed, but the prescription worked."A similar demonstration for the maintenance of the army's appropriation would not be so easy to engineer. The people are inclined to sympathize with any reduction of the expenses of government. At the same time, the President's position, and he finally came through
with the suggestion that Fourth of July would be a fitting date for
what the army had in mind. How these telegrams were provoked has never been revealed, but the prescription worked."Civilian's Viewpoint.
However, the General Staff believes it can be done and that Gen.
Pershing is the one individual who can do it without subjecting himself to charges of insubordination, conduct prejudicial to military discipline and violation of the rule that forbids lobbying on legislation for the department.Even in private conversation the officers offer no criticism of the President. They put it that his is the civilian's natural point of view; they assume that he honestly thinks their professional seal leads them to attach undue importance to curtailment that must follow the cut he suggests. They have no doubt that President Coolidge would listen to Gen. Pershing, but they are afraid that listening would not be enough. The President would have to take the General's word for it that the War Department is down to bad-rock now and that any further weakening of it would be dangerous, and the army has no different idea from that entertained by people out of uniform of the steadfastness with which the President adheres to his own opinions.Pershing appears to be their only hope. If he were a politician he might stump the country as Dawes is doing in his effort to impress on the people that the Senate needs reformation, and the people would get the same idea that they have of Dawes—that he was running for the presidency—and Mr. Coolidge would like it no more than he likes what Dawes is doing.WORK GOING FORWARD TO IMPROVE FAIRWAYS18-Hole Course Laid Out on Rolling Terrain—Clubhouse Facilities Available.Work is going forward this week on refinement of the pay-as-you-play golf course at Creve Coeur and Olive street roads which opened Saturday. The course is under control of the Creve Coeur Golf Club backed by Harry B. Smead of Chicago and John Hartnett.Under the unusual plan of operation of the club a golfer may for a fee of $1 play golf at the course all day making as many rounds as he wants to. There is a charge of 25 cents for locker which may also be retained at $5 a year and shower baths and clubhouse facilities are available to patrons.The course itself is a full 18 holes, laid out on rolling terrain typical of the western part of St.
Louis County. Because of the dry weather some difficulty has been experienced in producing a good turf on the hilltop fairways but the greens are well carpeted and a few weeks will see them in good condition.Much of the work of the club is now directed at placing bunkers, traps and the other hazards that give joy sometimes, but more often trouble, to the golfer. A course of men is also busy on the greens while others are grooming the fairway. A 30-inch water main is laid in front of the clubhouse lawn and from this the club is drawing a huge quantity of water for the fairways which are badly in need of rain.Meals are served at the club and caddies are available. Roy Hartnett, a brother of John Hartnett, is the club professional. Application has been made for membership in the United States Golf Association.MRS. WILSON MAKES VISIT

REASSURING NOTESays Public Opinion Should Not Be Distorted by Epionial Wars.By the Associated Press.

PARIS, July 6.—Supreme command of the French forces opposing the Rifians in Morocco, is to be taken from Marshal Lyautey, the Governor-General, and entrusted to a General who will leave France immediately for the front.This decision, which is subject to ratification by the Cabinet today, was reached at a council of war last night under the chairmanship of M. Painleve, Premier and War Minister. The step is being taken, it is explained, to allow Marshal Lyautey freedom in carrying out his administrative and political duties.The man selected for the post is understood to be Gen. Guillaumat, commander of the allied operations in the Balkans during the World War.Dispatches from Fes yesterday represented the situation in a highly pessimistic light, with wholesale defections of hitherto friendly tribesmen and an insurrection of French troops to hold the long line against Abd-el-Krim's drives in the direction of Fes and Taza.Painleve's Reassuring Note.
This caused such a stir in Paris that Premier Painleve issued an explanatory note declaring that public opinion ought not to allow itself to be distorted by such episodes, which are customary in colonial wars.The impression prevails, nevertheless, that Abd-el-Krim's offensive is developing upon a larger scale than any he has thus far attempted, calling for drastic action on the part of the French command. The French have begun a counter movement, and this is making considerable headway, according to the latest advices from headquarters.Taza has become the center of interest on the Moroccan front.
The tribes north of that city, which previously have sided with the French, now have rebelled, throwing their support to Abd-el-Krim and thus increasing the danger to Fes from the East.French official circles, however, express themselves as reassured by the measures taken to meet this new development.French Defeat Rifians in Two Engagements.By the Associated Press.
FEZ, French Morocco, July 6.—
The French severely defeated Abdel-Krim's tribesmen in two engagements yesterday. The Rifians attacked near Ain Matout and Kiffane. They lost heavily at the first and were routed at the second place.The French captured all the arms and munitions of the attacking tribesmen. These successes, French officials say, have produced an excellent effect on some of the Moroccans whose loyalty to the French has been doubted of late.It was officially announced today that the French have removed all women and children from Taza, as a precaution. Sunday night the French admitted reverses on the front near Taza in the war with Abd-el-Krim's Rifians.By the Associated Press.
RABAT, July 6.—The French military authorities announced they have "had to take special measures" because the hostility of a number of tribes along the eastern sector has become so pronounced.FIRST OF NEW GOLF AND Work of Humane Society.

 To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I wish to acknowledge the check for $5 sent to you by Mr. H. W. Cann of Hurst, Ill., as a result of a recent editorial in the Post-Dispatch on "Dogs." If the newspaper of St. Louis would back the Humane Society in its work with a good appealing article occasionally we feel that our financial troubles would be a thing of the past.

Whenever anything is published advising the public at large of the work we are doing, we profit in two ways, mainly by increased calls upon us and secondly, financially.

Last year our activities resulted in relief being given to over 8000 animals. There are many times that many animals should be given relief and we are unable to care for them in as active a way as we wish to, simply because of lack of funds and the ability to employ enough humane officers to cover the city and the county.

We thank you for the check and also for the editorial which prompted the gift.

 Executive Secretary Humane Society of Missouri.

Fair Charge or Tax?

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
 THE bank ruling charging $1 a month for keeping an account of $200 or less surely is based on the presumption that all small depositors are ignorant.

Under this arrangement a depositor pays, not for service that the bank renders him, but for the fact that he is a small depositor and therefore unworthy except that he may for his greenback and the privilege of lending the bank a moderate amount of money.

The bank, the same as any other business, has overhead cost, of course, and no one expects them to do business at a loss, but they should make a fair charge for any unpaid-for service and not an arbitrary assessment. The cost of handling a depositor's account consists of bank space and clerical labor and printed forms. Now suppose I carry a $100 balance and make two deposits and write four checks a month and my friend who perhaps has a small business carries a $250 balance, makes 10 deposits and writes 20 checks. The bank's cost on my friend's account is just five times as heavy as on my own and he only lends the bank two and one-half times as much money. Stated otherwise, he carries only a $50 balance on two deposits and four checks and doesn't have to pay. I carry a $100 balance at the same cost and pay an additional dollar or withdraw my account. Rest assured I'll do the latter. A fair charge for service is all right, but a tax is not.

Against Water Meters

 AGAIN our Water Commissioner wants every private family to possess its own water meter. Does that signify that, in addition to the electric and gas, we are to add the water inspector? That question was apparently settled long ago, i. e., the private family, for hygienic reasons, shall not be curtailed, even to the sprinkling of flowers. He points to other cities; they certainly haven't got the free bridge and other problems with which we are afflicted. Why can't St. Louis build a Keokuk electric power plant right at the river and use the surplus to power the city? We have a lot of problems, then all of our homes could be warmed by electricity and we wouldn't have the smoke problem to contend with? I have known a lot of fellows during my quarter of a century of practice here that actually have felt that no one could take their place. These should, for the betterment of St. Louis, become disillusioned, and stand aside, if you please, and make way for the people who have made an impression on progress.

Remedy for Chigger Bites and Mosquito Stings.

THE open season for humans in Chigger Land begins the first week in June and continues until frost. Every year these pestiferous hunters jab their spears into our tender skins and set up irritation out of all proportion to the size of the wound. There is a simple preventive which I have used and prescribed for many years, a little troublesome to use, but much less so than a week's scratching. A tablespoonful of sodium hypophosphite (the common hypo of pharmacists) in half a pint of water, and some powdered sulphur.

Before leaving for the hike or picnic, pour some of the solution into a saucer, and with a sponge or the hand over the entire body except the face. Before this dries, dip your moist hand in common flowers of sulphur and apply liberally, especially under arms and behind the knees. You are now chigger proof and will remain so for the day. The first bath removes the slightly sulphurous odor. It takes about 10 minutes to "process" yourself. I made in an ocean of chiggers every week and they have no terrors for me. The hypo, by the way, also antidotes stings of bees and mosquitoes.

DEFENSE DAY.

Our second annual "Defense Day," as observed on July 4, was, we are officially told, a great success. Statistics are cited to prove it. It was observed in approximately 7000 localities and 20,000,000 people, it is estimated, actively took part in it. The officials in charge, seemingly, are satisfied.

This official enthusiasm, it strikes us, is somewhat forced. The fact is Defense Day was bungled this year, and it was more than bungled last year. The plans last year originally called for a demonstration of imposing magnitude calculated to impress the world with our military strength. At first it was to be Mobilization Day. The adverse public reaction to that designation caused a great deal of official confusion, a great deal of stammering disavowal as to the purpose of the occasion and much countermanding of orders. "Mobilization Day," it was realized, was a psychological blunder. The effects of that blunder on public sentiment still persist. They have not been banished by the happier appellation of Defense Day.

This year the big mistake was made in crowding the demonstration into the congested holiday calendar of July 4. Moreover, this date was not decided upon until late in May, which gave scant time for preparation, for generating the enthusiasm and for redeeming the occasion from the swarming atmosphere of militarism with which it was blighted by the warriors of Washington a year ago.

There was one interesting expression, however, inspired by "The Day." The assurance of Dwight F. Davis, Acting Secretary of War, that, if we should be dragged into another war, "our defense plans are so drawn that there will be no slackers and no profiteers." Prudence, we assume, prevented Mr. Davis from taking the public fully into his confidence on this point. Yet an outline of the plan for eliminating the slacker and especially for eliminating the profiteer, would, if it promised to be effective, have been greeted by the American people with loud and prolonged applause.

Mr. Davis did well in serving this notice. The promoter of war today is the profiteer. There are many kinds of profiteers. The word itself suggests the type we are most familiar with—the type we encountered so frequently in the World War—the chap who was out for all the traffic would bear, and still is, for that matter. This is the pest which Mr. Davis pledges will be eradicated. But in the larger sense the seed of war is in economics. Once wars were of dynastic origin. Then religious; then political. Now they are economic. And this is a truth which ought to engage the most earnest efforts of all men of consequence in official life everywhere. The economic problem has countless aspects. Economic interest dictates or colors the policies of all the nations. We see it in immigration laws, in tariffs, in the raging struggle for such vital raw materials as coal and oil, in the insatiable quest for markets. And no nation has yet appeared with the courage and vision to sacrifice a material advantage for the cause of peace.

But if the world is ever to have enduring peace, if mankind is ever to be freed from the scourge of war, there must be substantial co-operation by the nations. There must be a new and enlightened economic policy, a system, if you please, of economic ethics, with the international machinery necessary to maintain economic justice. The war profiteer is a contemptible excrement, but it is the profiteering of industrial development and expansion in times of peace, prosecuted with the sanction of public opinion, that must be regulated and restrained if enduring peace is ever to be attained. No such millennial dawn is on the horizon. Under the circumstances, then, voluntary demonstrations, under the style of Defense Day or Muster Day, or whatnot, are entirely proper, provided they are in accord with the spirit of the national defense act and the true pacifist character of the American people. But a less crowded day than July 4 should be found.

PARADISE LOST.

Ah, pity the poor Turk. For centuries he has lived a happy, childlike existence, murdering occasional Armenians, abducting the fairest Bulgarian damsels for his harem, bathing but seldom, paying few if any taxes and doing in general as he jolly well pleased. What more could man desire here below? But now all is to be changed. The Philhellenes have got him, as they got the rest of us long ago. The hat, straw and derby, has invaded Islam, and with it will shortly appear all the respectabilities of which it is the badge.

It means that life will be ordered on a different plan. Can you picture a man in a brown derby throwing a weeping maiden across his Arabian charger and galloping off through the desert? Can you conceive one in a Panama or a split straw jockey riding his scimitar in an Armenian bazaar? No, the Turk may as well surrender. He faces life in a world of steel filing cabinets, after-dinner speeches, traffic cops, two-pants suits, tabloid newspapers and Ford cars. The Babbitts are not coming—they are here.

LAWS OR SPORTSMANSHIP?

Passenger pigeons are as extinct as the roc or dodo. They live only in books and the memory of old men; a sad lesson on what may happen to our wild life. Dr. William T. Hornaday, eminent advocate of wild life conservation, may have had that in mind when he recently deplored the failure of many states to pass measures reducing the bag limit on wild fowl. He had heard from 42 states, of which but eight took the desired action, and so he went on to forecast the extermination of those migratory game birds.

Sportsmen generally will agree that there has been a lesser flight these later years. Even the Federal ban on spring shooting, which was urged and enacted as sufficient safeguard, has not turned the tide of slaughter in favor of the feathered wanderers. After that showing, the legislators showed a pronounced indifference that blights the hope of one whose life has been devoted to game protection.

But the doctor may prove a poor prophet, after all. He overlooked a protective influence that may prove more effective than laws. This is the spread of sportsmanship among those who seek their recreation on lake or marsh, on river or ocean shore. These organizations of sportsmen, such as the Iszaak Walton League, enroll constantly increasing numbers. They teach conservation, and they make a thing of scorn of the pot hunter and the game hog. This campaign of education is having its influence. Many men are abandoning the pump gun and the automatic for the double-barrel. More men are willing to call it a good day's sport with less than the legal limit.

This force of sportsmanship is doing constructive work, too; providing refuges, feeding grounds and rest havens along the line of flight. They face the handicap of an increased number of hunters, as population grows, and good roads and motors make the shooting grounds more easily accessible. But it means much that those who kill the game have a growing interest in protecting it. It means more than stricter game laws, for America has learned how little a law may mean when it is not enforced. It means the growth of enlightened public opinion in support of laws.

JUDGE GAYER'S SERVICE.

A police tyranny is the worst form of tyranny. It touches, or is likely to touch, every citizen. It is imminent and pervasive. Against such a tyranny, Judge Paul A. Gayer of the Court of Criminal Correction is striving valiantly and bravely to protect St. Louis.

In Sunday's Post-Dispatch Judge Gayer outlined the reasons behind his recent policy of dismissing numerous appeals from the police courts, reducing the penalties in others and demanding that police officers refrain from violating the law in their attempts to enforce it. They are reasons which will appeal to every thinking person. Not to believe in such a policy is to believe in orderly government.

St. Louis has been restive. Feeling that it suffered from much preventable crime, the public has demanded law enforcement. But law enforcement does not mean that the police force must transform itself into a uniformed posse nor that the Police Judges must constitute themselves a committee of vigilantes, pronouncing every defendant guilty, regardless of the evidence.

Judge Gayer is right when he says that it is just as important to save the innocent as it is to punish the guilty. He is right when he says that official lawlessness is the worst form of lawlessness. He is right in demanding that prosecutions in his court be supported by evidence sufficient to justify conviction. It was to protect citizens against just such clamor that the founders of this country endeavored to create "a government of laws instead of men."

It is difficult for public officials to resist clamor. It is easy for them to mistake the noise made by professional reformers for the voice of public sentiment. But the official who respects his oath, and pursues his duty intelligently and bravely, as Judge Gayer is doing, is performing a public service the value of which will be recognized in time.

MISS ANGLIN'S VETO.

Considerable plans had been laid by the management of the Garden Theater for the appearance of Miss Margaret Anglin in social and ceremonial events prior to the opening performance of "Electra." Among these events was a dedication to be held Sunday. Miss Anglin sweepingly vetoed all of them until after the actual public performances of the drama had gotten under way.

Of course, many persons have been disappointed and the management may have lost something in the publicity that would have attended a number of speeches and dinners. But the viewpoint of the artist is altogether sound and generous. She was belated two days in starting rehearsals. She insisted, therefore, that every other consideration be sacrificed in the interest of a finished and thoroughly prepared performance. Whatever temporary disappointments have been felt because of her refusal to be diverted from rehearsal will be more than recompensed in the final quality of the product she will present to the ticket holders.

A BAD DAY FOR CHAUVINISM.

July 1, which marked the first anniversary of the Japanese exclusion act passed by the American Congress, was a bad day for the self-exalted patriots of the Island Empire. The occasion had been chosen for a resounding anti-American demonstration. There had been a tame meeting of 1000 persons the night before. But the big event scheduled for the anniversary in Tokio drew forth only a listless and bored 200. Absolute quiet, we are told, marked the day in other centers of population.

Printed matter circulated on the streets carefully explained that the Japanese do not desire to appear hostile to America, but wish to dispel any idea that there has been change of heart on the "insult" contained in the exclusion measure. Nevertheless, it was a great opportunity for hair-trigger patriots. Their failure to make such a showing as has been made at other times affords gratifying evidence that the sentiment for anti-American agitation is at a low ebb.

Let it not be overlooked that on this same day in the United States a statement was issued from one Edward L. Doherty to the effect that his motive in consummating oil leases with millions of profit was patriotism inspired by the information that war in the Pacific was impending. It was a bad day for Chauvinism, too, on this side of the Pacific.

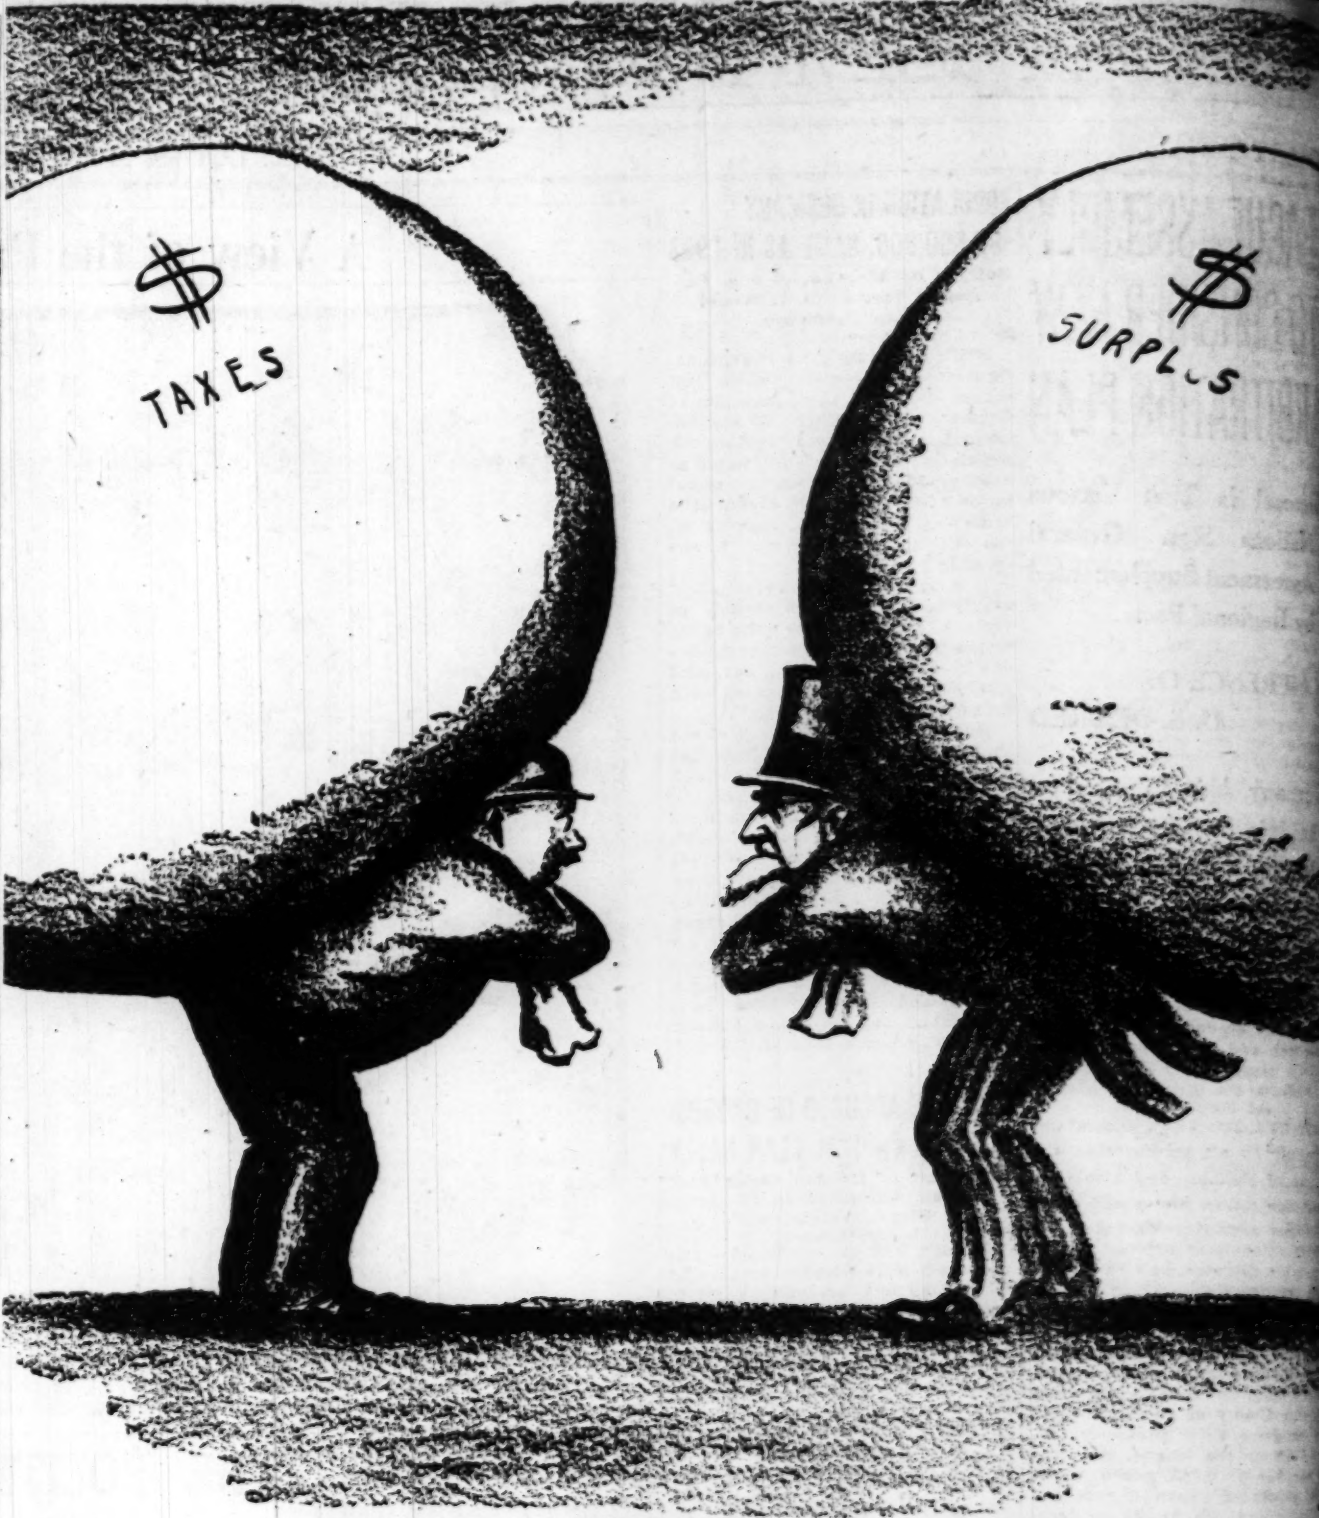

THE COOLIDGE-DAWES RIFT.

The relations between Mr. Coolidge and Mr. Dawes cannot but have a strong bearing on the ambitions of the latter. The swashbuckling banker-statesman—so goes the "dope"—yearns to quit the shackles of the vice presidency to succeed his chief in the White House. And as a personal achievement, which might also aid him to his goal, he hopes to win his case for revision of the Senate rules.

There is political as well as gossip interest, therefore, in the unqualified statement of Frank R. Kent, correspondent of the Baltimore Sun, that a rift between the President and the Vice President, beginning with the nomination of the latter at Cleveland, has widened and offers no prospect of closing.

Mr. Coolidge did not want Dawes as his running mate. Aside from the disqualifying fact that Dawes on the ticket represented the same element in the party as Coolidge himself, the two are of widely divergent temperament. Coolidge is dubious of reforms and reformers. He prefers to sit tight and let things work themselves out. Dawes is keen on the trigger of action and bellows at the whole world to watch him perform. The inaugural tirade on the Senate rules was a shock to the placid President. The failure to save "Beet Sugar Charlie" Warren for the Cabinet was, in Coolidge's mind, a calamity to the administration. Coolidge is distrustful of Senate rules reform and does not wish to see it succeed. The fact that both give public demonstrations of friendship is held to confirm rather than refute the estrangement.

The clash of temperaments may have a great deal to do with the succession to the White House.

CELLEBRATE IT.

Were I to paint your picture,
 I'd use just colors three.
 I'd take the gold within your hair,
 And blend it with the blue so rare.
 That makes your eyes carefree.

Then I would use a feather
 And spread the gold so fine.
 That in between each shining beam Would peep Aurora's blush—a dream—
 To make your cheeks divine.

But for your lips, enticing, I'd pluck a red, red rose.
 Then dip it in some blood-red wine
 To make its color closer to mine
 And shaped like Cupid's bows.

Then I would take the picture
 And send it straight to you
 A message from a soul apart
 Who learned that first within your heart.
 Was placed for others—two. PLATO.

Sir: Just the other day I was standing on the corner for lack of something to do when my attention was called to two Swedes. Both of them were big, blue-eyed and blond—you know the type typical to Sweden. They addressed each other in this manner: "Chris, how you bane?" "Purty good, Olesen; how you bane?" "Oh, I bane purty good. I just got married yesterday." "Dot's good, Olesen." "Not so good, Chris; my wife have nine children already." "Oh, dot's bad, Olesen." "Oh, not so bad, Chris; my wife have one million dollar." "Dot's good, Olesen." "Not so good, Chris; she bane dot spend dot million dollar." "Dot's bad, Olesen." "Oh, not so bad, Chris; dot house she bane burn down this mornin'." "Oh, dot's bad, Olesen." "Oh, not so bad, Chris; my wife she bane burn up in dot house." "Dot's good, Olesen." "Yes, Chris; dot's good." LOUIS PONDER.

THE GREEK KALEIDOSCOPE
 From the New York Times.

GEN. FANGALOR, leader of the revolution at Athens, announced his intention to organize a new cabinet to maintain the parliamentary system of government "if possible." This suggests the probability of a dictatorship on the fashionable Mediterranean model, as the Greek revolutionaries have been marked by three dethronements, one abolition of the monarchy, and one royalist counter-revolution.

Ministerial crises too numerous to mention, the proclamation of the republic in March, 1924, an era of comparative stability appeared to set in. On the surface, at least, no justification exists for the coup d'etat comparable with the one which threatened Italy that brought in Benito Mussolini, or the one which threatened the succession of Spanish monarchs that brought in Primo de Rivera.

Try and imagine Leander Buzo, star of the Great Ziegfeld Follies, in the role of Capt. Nungesser, and you will understand the reason for the popularity of the film. Nungesser is a man who has won the widest acclaim in Hollywood. Any time Leander steps into public view that is the most noticeable thing about him and his faithful valet, who follows him every day polishing his valued trophy so that it may reflect some of Mr. Buzo's radiant beauty. Capt. Nungesser has been in 43 of the world's most important decorations presented for bravery in action yet, when he comes out upon the stage, none is given and he makes no reference to them or to his wonderful war record in the quiet little speech which he delivers in broken English. He is said before Capt. Nungesser is pleasing, his play is pleasing and the combination makes a most decidedly worth while entertainment. See them both by all means.

Soul Fire Not So Hot.

N "Soul Fire," at the Grand Central and Lyric Skydome, Dick Barthelmess has the sort of picture which would appeal to people who don't go to picture shows. The regular customer will have a hard time trying to figure out what it is all about. In the story Dick is a young fellow who wants to compose great music but his family, who have money to burn, insist to him to be a commercial success. This starts the boy sitting around the world looking for the woman who will marry him. He almost finds her in Paris but the lady proves to be just a bit dishonest in money matters and our hero moves on to New York. The lady of his dreams becomes so fond of him that she offers to make him the piano player in the dive which she runs down on the water front. It being just a step or two from Port Said in the South Seas, Dick passes up the steady employment offer and we next find him basking in the sunshine of a beautiful English girl whose parents left her an orphan. Suddenly, down Sandwich Islands way, this time it's a case of love at first sight and under the soft glow of the moon Dick writes some inspiring music with the help of a grand piano which the girl's parents just happened to be carrying with them at the time they decided to try playing on the harp. Dick's luck with his girl friends is still bad. The little English South Sea Islander turns out to have a trifling affliction. Dick is nothing but leprosy but musicians are so peculiar that instead of a wedding a double suicide is about to be introduced when a famous surgeon arrives and says the young lady's ailment is just her father's itch and that it can be cured. In the movies, forthwith. The rest is reasonably simple.

The Greek Kaleidoscope

THE Greek Kaleidoscope is the New York Times. IN PANGLOSS, leader of the latest evolution at Athens, announces his intention to organize a new cabinet and maintain the parliamentary system of government "if possible." This suggests the ability of a dictatorship on the new model. Pangloss, as a member of the Mediterranean model, as explained by Mussolini and Primo de Riva. For that matter, Greece can make good case for priority in setting the fashion. Military considerations and army force have determined the fate of Athens government during the eight years that have elapsed since the late King Constantine was compelled to abdicate under pressure. These eight years have been marked by three depositions, two kings, one abolition of the monarchy, at one royalist counter-revolution, the proclamation of the republic in 1924, an era of comparative stability, and the Greek revolution of 1935. On the surface at least, no justification exists for the latest d'état comparable with the commotion in Italy that brought in Mussolini or the succession of Spanish disasters that brought in Primo de Riva.

THERE are a lot of laughs in "The Crackerjack" at Loew's and a good many comedy lines, but the picture would have been a lot better if done in three reels instead of six or seven. For a feature it is pretty light. And Johnny Hines is hardly clever enough to hold the interest for an hour by falling down stairs and tripping on chandeliers. The story is one of a pickle salesman who is tangled up in a South American comic opera sort of a revolution, and there are a whole lot of situations which are meant to be funny. Some of them are.

ANITA STEWART and Wolf, a dog which saw service in the war, combine their talents to give an entertaining version of James Oliver Curwood's story of the Far North, "Barce, Son of Kazan," at the Deaf Monte this week. Barce's mother was a wolf and he was a vicious animal until Nepesee, a trapper's daughter, adopted him. Then he tracks down her father's slayer and reunites his mistress and her lover. The film offers splendid scenes of the snow-covered mountains and abounds in action. There also are two comedies on the bill.

THERE is nothing much to be said about "Grounds for Divorce," at the Missouri. It is just another picture of the serio-comic type which is not very serious and not very comic. It is not poor enough to be really tiresome, nor yet good enough to be interesting. On the Missouri's bill, however, are "Hula and Blake," the negro entertainer and composer, and if you hear them the price you paid for your admission ticket is far from being a total loss.

A Ship Stick Revolution.

THERE are a lot of laughs in "The Crackerjack" at Loew's and a good many comedy lines, but the picture would have been a lot better if done in three reels instead of six or seven. For a feature it is pretty light. And Johnny Hines is hardly clever enough to hold the interest for an hour by falling down stairs and tripping on chandeliers. The story is one of a pickle salesman who is tangled up in a South American comic opera sort of a revolution, and there are a whole lot of situations which are meant to be funny. Some of them are.

An excellent cast and a gripping story are the potent ingredients of "Capital Punishment," at the Capitol Theater. George Backmaster, in particular, does some splendid acting, while the surrounding roles are capably handled by Robert Dexter, Mary Carr, the flapper Clara Bow, Margaret Livingston and Robert Ellis. In addition to the feature, pictures of the recent Ed Lewis-Big Munn wrestling match are shown. In "Capital Punishment," following the ex-

BABY THROWN TO SAFETY WHEN NEW YORK TENEMENT BURNS

NEW YORK, July 6.—Fire yesterday destroyed the four-story tenement house at 429 West Fifth street, causing the death of one woman and the injury of three firemen and two tenants. Joseph Jefferson Clardy, 3 weeks old, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Clardy, was hurled by his father from the burning building into the arms of two other tenants in the courtyard, three stories below. While Clardy was leading his wife and five children to the rear fire escape he carried the youngest in his arms. The others got down the fire escape safely, but Clardy, while climbing down the iron ladder, suddenly became weak and overcame by smoke and shouted for help. Then Charles McLaughlin, who is on the Fire Department's waiting list of applicants, started climbing the fire escape to aid Clardy. Suddenly the latter shouted:

"I'm giving way. Catch the baby." With that he hurled the child to the ground and McLaughlin and another man caught it. Later Clardy was carried to safety and the baby was reported uninjured.

Rowell dropped 145 cases against both factions.

MEN, MISSING FOR 11 DAYS, FOUND ON MOUNTAIN

Two Tennesseans Say They Were Chained to Tree by Hooded Band, and Moved Nightly.

By the Associated Press.
CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., July 6.
—Sheriff Tom Selman this morning began an investigation into the story told by Dr. W. D. Mason, local veterinarian, and Lawrence Bowman, alleged feudist and aide of Federal prohibition officers, that they had been kidnaped on Signal Mountain and kept captive for 10 days.

The two men, who disappeared on June 23, were found yesterday morning by James Thomas, mountaineer. They said they had been handcuffed and tied to a tree about 15 miles from Chattanooga.

Bowman said that while driving along the road at night they were set upon by five men wearing sacks over their heads, overpowered and taken into the woods.

The men declared they had been lured to the mountain by a false telephone message and were returning home when attacked. The following day, Mason's car was found on the mountain with blood stains on the running board and containing the hats of the vanished men.

A reward of a thousand dollars was offered for the discovery of the men, dead or alive, and a large number of mountaineers joined in the search. The theory of the officers was that the men had been attacked by a band of feudists and moonshiners, the Bowmans having been at outs with what is known as the Godsey clan for several months, the trouble having its climax when Ike Bowman was killed by Sam Godsey some time ago.

Call Story "Frame Up."
Sam Godsey, a deputy sheriff of Sequatchie County, in a statement last night, said that the whole affair was a frameup designed to injure him, and that Bowman and Mason had plotted to make it appear that they were dead in order to engage in whisky-making without interference from the law.

Godsey also said that W. E.
Grubb, Federal prohibition officer, who was shot by Benton Godsey a few weeks ago, was also engaged in liquor running and served notice upon the Government's agents that he intended to clear the mountains of moonshiners.

Sheriff Selman this morning declared that the whole affair appeared absurd and that he intended to get at the bottom of the case.

Attacked by Hooded Men.
Mason and Bowman said they had been set upon the night of their disappearance by five hooded men, carried off from Dr. Mason's car and chained to a tree. Each night they were blindfolded and removed to another place, they said.

Bowman was able to talk, according to Thomas, but Mason did not speak. Bowman said that it had been four days since Mason had eaten, having become angry at being held captive and refused to eat and drink on one occasion.
The captors then grew angry with Mason, Bowman stated, and refused to feed him or give him water.

Thomas, accompanied by his 9-year-old grandson and a German police dog, was looking for hogs, when he found the men.

Crowd at Hospital.
When news of the discovery of the men was received in the city, Chief Deputy Nick Bush, who had headed the search for them, leaped into an ambulance and sped to the top of the mountain where he conducted an investigation and sought to find the captors of the men.

News of the finding of the men spread like wild fire. Crowds besieged the jail and hospital. By the time Mason arrived at the hospital a crowd of more than a hundred had almost overrun the institution.

The scene was re-enacted at the sanitarium where Bowman was carried. Crowds and cars congregated for two blocks between the hospital and the jail.

Feud of Several Years.
For some years a bitter feud has existed between the Bowman and Godsey factions on the mountains over all liquor making and it came to a climax several months ago when Deputy Sheriff Godsey killed Bowman, brothers of Lawrence Bowman, in a gun battle. Since that time Lawrence Bowman has been aiding prohibition agents in finding out stills said to have been operated by the Godsey clan.

Prohibition Agent W. E. Grubb was brought into the feud when he arrested an alleged liquor runner belonging to the Godsey faction, resulting in the officer and his brother, John G. Grubb being shot on the streets of Chattanooga recently by Benton Godsey. Later Godsey had Grubb arrested on the charge of selling whisky. The case is now pending in the courts.

NEW YORK POLICEMAN MADE WEALTHY BY HIS OIL HOLDINGS

Acting Lieut. Noll, Who Won College Degree in Spare Time, to Quit Force.

NEW YORK, July 6.—A wealthy scholar is retiring soon as a member of the New York police force in order to be near his mother in Los Angeles and, if her health permits, to study civil engineering at Leland Stanford University.

Acting Lieut. William E. Noll, who is in charge of detectives at High Bridge station on the Harlem River, near the ball parks, has struck oil. Land owned by the family at Long Beach, Cal., is now producing a revenue of $100,000 a year and up, he says, and he expects to be a millionaire soon.

He holds a degree of bachelor of arts from Columbia University, having studied there for eight years in his spare time, specializing in Oriental languages and psychology. His linguistic ability has resulted in conviction of proprietors of several gambling places in Chinatown because he translated wall signs about the beauties of policy games.

Forty-two years old, he would have been eligible for pension three months hence as the result of 20 years' service on the force, but he has given notice of his resignation to take effect July 15.

"What's a little piece of change like that to me?" he asked when questioned about his loss of a pension.

His brother, Herbert, took his mother, Mrs. Noll, 15 years ago and most of the property inherited from their father, a well-to-do saloon keeper, was invested in real estate at Los Angeles and Long Beach.

BORDER TROUBLE BETWEEN SOVIET AND POLISH TROOPS

By the Associated Press.

WARSAW, July 6.—Border troubles between the Soviets and Poles have brought a protest from the Russian Minister, M. Wolkoff, who complains that a Polish guard in Volhynia entered Soviet territory and burned a Soviet border post.

It is said that the Poles did this as a reprisal for the abduction of a Polish officer by a Soviet patrol that had entered Poland. The Poles assert that two other officers were made prisoners in a similar manner last week.

Both the Poles and Russians, it is explained, have made these raids on each other periodically, the prisoners being exchanged, but this was the first time officers had been taken.

POLICE EMERGENCY SERVICE

Two Trucks of Special Service Added to New York Department.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 6.—A new police emergency service for riots, fires and serious accidents—the first of its kind in the world—will begin operation tomorrow morning. It will start with two trucks of a special type, built at a cost of approximately $14,000 each.

Each truck, in its territory, will attend all fires, more than two alarms, riots and train wrecks or automobile collisions in which many persons are injured or imperiled. The equipment of each truck consists of 12 fire axes, two pulleys, six acetylene torches, one life net, one rope cannon, eight stretchers, six hydraulic jacks, six searchlights, four cot beds, six camp chairs, one medical chest with complete surgical equipment, six gas helmets, six blankets, special clothing for injured and personnel and many lesser items.

WOMAN ATTEMPTS SUICIDE BY GAS

Mrs. Geraldine Shockley, 26 years old, of 321 South Sarah street, was taken to the city hospital early today suffering from gas poisoning. Her sister, Miss Grace Dolman, told police that she found Mrs. Shockley lying in the basement, with a gas-connection tube in her mouth upon going to see why she had not returned from taking a shower bath. She said they had just come back from an automobile ride, and Mrs. Shockley had not seemed disturbed.

LEGAL OBSTACLE TO PROPOSED TUBERCULOSIS SANITARIUM

St. Clair Auditor Says Limit on Tax Levy Already Has Been Reached.

The erection of a tuberculosis sanitarium in St. Clair County will be an impossibility unless the Illinois Legislature passes a law empowering counties to levy a tax over the constitutional limit of 75 cents on the $100 property valuation. This has been made known by County Auditor Eckert of Belleville, who said the county is already levying the limit of 75 cents.

Under the law, the county can levy 50 cents on the $100 property valuation for general county purpose, and, in case of necessity, an additional 25 cents. St. Clair County is levying the 25 cents additional, with 20 cents for road bonds and interest and 5 cents for county highways and for the St. Clair County Detention Home.

MISSING MAN FOUND DEAD

Millionaire Had Wandered Away From Sanitarium.

BATTLE CREEK, Mich., July 6.—William E. Porter, millionaire glass manufacturer of Fort Smith, Ark., who has been missing eight days, was found dead yesterday in a secluded spot on an abandoned farm, four miles from this city.

Porter wandered away from the Battle Creek Sanitarium, where he was a patient, on June 27. A reward of $1000 had been offered by his father, Enos Porter.

A mongrel dog succeeded in ending the search where imported bloodhounds, placed on the trail a week ago, failed. The dog's master, Fred Silvernail, a laborer, probably will get the $1000 reward.

While Sheriff Colby declared Porter may have been the victim of a murder, Coroner Gray followed a suicide theory. A diamond ring worn by Porter on his left hand was untouched, as was $39 in his pocketbook.

Shop Manager and $100 Missing.

George A. Lackey, owner of a sandwich shop at 1223 Market street, last night reported the disappearance of the night manager of the place, together with $100 from the register.

The Man on the Sandbox

THE PASSING SHOW.

SEE where Harry Wills made hash
Of Charley Weinert's features.
And, with a well-directed smash
He knocked him in the bleachers.
H. Greb, the Pittsburg jumping jack,
Took Mickey Walker's number While Shade gave Slattery a smack.
That dropped him into slumber.
Of course, a shot at Dempsey's crown,
H. Wills will now be claiming;
And, that old panther, lithe and brown,
Will take a lot of taming.
But, while he took Sam Lang-ford's law,
When he was young and agile, He'll find that Brother Dempsey's jaw
Is anything but fragile.

H. Greb, as a light-heavy rates, While Walker is a welter;
And, so they took the scale of weights
And knocked it helter-skelter.
To get a line on what they weigh,
Is really quite a riddle;
They fight as middleweights and play
Both ends against the middle.

MOTORMAN OF INTERURBAN CAR KILLED IN CRASH

Three Passengers Injured in Head-On Collision on Collinsville Line Near Fairmont City.

ACCIDENT ON LEVEL, OPEN COUNTRY

Dead Man Was in Charge of an Extra Car, Vacant Except Crew, Headed for Maryville Sheds.

Joseph S. Miller, motorman of an extra car on the Collinsville line of the East St. Louis & Suburban Railway, was killed when his car and another one had a head-on collision near Fairmont City at 9
a. m. today, and three passengers on the other car were hurt.

Miller, who was 50 years old and resided at 1000 West Main street, Collinsville, had been a motorman for the company for more than 10 years and was said to have had no accident previously. Travers Nielson, company claim agent, who declared he had obtained no statements from the carmen in the accident, said Miller's car was running as an extra, and he had passed a siding about 150 yards to the south.

Motorman Dies at Hospital.

All of the injured persons were taken to St. Mary's Hospital, East St. Louis, where Miller died within a short time. He had suffered fractures of the skull and both arms and lacerations of the body.
The accident occurred at Granby crossing, about two miles north of East St. Louis, at a point where the track makes a slight bend in level, open country. It appeared that the motorman might have seen such other cars when about 180 yards apart. The front ends of both cars were smashed to pieces by the impact, the control apparatus being thrown down and the sides demolished.

Miller's car, headed for the sheds at Maryville, was running north without passengers. The other car, carrying about 15 passengers, was headed south for St. Louis, from Collinsville. The track parallels the National Highway at this point.

Other Members of Car Crew.
L. Smith was conductor of Miller's car. The crew of the other car comprised J. H. Craven, motom-an, and L. R. Kneidler, conductor. All reside in Collinsville. It was reported that Craven escaped injury by jumping from his car.

Those injured are:
Miss Fern Italiano, 21 years old, of 325 Central avenue, Collinsville; abrasions of nose, bruised abdomen, lacerations of right ankle.
Mrs. Ileso Wetto, 35, of 629
East Main street, Collinsville; abrasions of nose and contusions of left arm.
Thomas West, 52, a negro, of 819 Jefferson avenue, Dupon; bruised nose and mouth.
